

MAKE THIS A NEWSY PAPER
BY GIVING US ALL YOUR
NEWS ITEMS EACH WEEK

THE NEWS-BULLETIN

Friday 27 fair; 28 rain; 29 rain & warmer; 30 rain & warmer; 31 s. w.
winds; Aug. 1 fair; 2 temperature;

THE NEWS-BULLETIN PHONE
No. 15 MOKENA 6-J

VOL. 9 NO. 48.

MOKENA, ILLINOIS FRIDAY, JULY 27, 1928.

$1.50 per year in advance

Mokena Zoning Commission Named

7 MEMBERS APPOINTED BY MAYOR HACKER

The Mokena village council is looking forward to the time when Mokena will develop and have decided that in order to make a model town that the business, residence and apartment sections of the village should be properly zoned and at the meeting of the council Wednesday night Mayor George J. Hacker named the zoning commission to consist of the following: Ona E. McGovney, Albert Braun, village trustees, Geo. J. Hacker, mayor, R. Hensel, Harvey Reab, David Kolber and Dr. E. G. McMahon local business men.

The duties of the commission as outlined by Mr. Carther of the engineering firm of Kelker DeLeow of Chicago, will be to next organize a Planning Commission the personnel of which will be the same as of the Zoning Commission. The planning commission will then consider what sections of the village shall be restricted for business, residential and apartment. The planning commission will then recommend to the village council that an ordinance be passed creating the zoning of such districts. When this is completed the zoning commission goes out of existence, but the planning commission remains as a permanent body.

A tentative map was presented at the council meeting Wednesday night setting forth the proposed zoning. Both sides of Wolf Road from the south end of the village limits up to the Hirsch Bros. farm on the north end are proposed for a business district; both sides of Front street up to the Julius Hirsch corner are designated for business; from there east to the end of the village limits the district is to be zoned for residential and apartment building purposes. A part of the south side of the village is to be zoned in like manner and the McIntosh subdivision is to be for residence purposes entirely.

Any businesses already established and existing in any section zoned for residence or apartment purposes will not be affected by the zoning ordinance, but no new business can be established in such district. If any existing business establishment in such district should be destroyed by fire or otherwise it could not be rebuilt in the same location if in the residential or apartment building zone.

As soon as the zoning commission above named shall have worked out their plans as to what sections of the village shall be zoned for the several purposes mentioned, they will make a report to the village council and if the latter accept such report then a zoning ordinance will be prepared and adopted by the council and the zoning act will then become a law of the municipality.

According to the estimate of the Chicago Regional Planning Commission the estimated population of Mokena in 1950 will be 1000.

Mokena Blind Pigs Discussed by The Nuisance Com.

The nuisance committee of the Mokena village board reported at the council meeting Wednesday night that a number of "blind pigs" have sprung up in Mokena of late. It was reported that moonshine can be purchased at four different places within a block and a half on Front street.

A number of drunken men can be seen on the streets of the village almost any day. These men are employed on the road gangs working in the vicinity of Mokena. It was reported that one fellow was found lying between the rails of the Rock Island a short distance east of Mokena dead drunk and but for the timely arrival of the section foreman he would have been killed by trains. Another case was reported where a fellow dead drunk laid alongside the highway and was loaded up like a chunk of cordwood and taken to his camp.

It was further reported that moonshine is being sold for $3 a quart. Alderman August Hentsch reported that a car with four burly looking drunken men in it crashed into his gasoline filling station one night last week. They narrowly missed hitting some children at play near by.

Farmers Watch

For the Special Tractor Oil Adv. of the Mokena Oil Co., which will appear in this paper next week.

LEVI DOTY PASSES 91st BIRTHDAY

Levi Doty of Frankfort, one of the best known residents of Eastern Will County has passed his 91st birthday. Mr. Doty has been a noted man in his day for the great work he has done in a humanitarian way. He has been associated with Humane Society work for a great many years without any salary. He has been doing all his work for the good of the cause and of humanity. He has been a benefactor to more than one person and has done untold good in his long and useful life.

Even tho he is greatly advanced in years, Mr. Doty is still keenly interested in the affairs of nation and is still able to be about and has a keen mind and memory. He can tell of many interesting things that occurred fifty or seventy five years ago. His father Ambrose Doty was one of the pioneer settlers of this section and Mr. Doty has resided in and near Frankfort all his life.

Mr. Doty celebrated his 91st anniversary last Saturday at his home by entertaining a few relatives. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. James Garden, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Garden, Mrs. Margaret Perry, Miss Anna Garden, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pfaff and daughter Eva Jean.

Mr. Doty's legion of friends extend congratulations and hope he will live to round out a hundred years.

School Plans Explained to P. T.A.

Plans for the new Mokena public school were shown at the Mokena P. T. A. meeting at the school house Tuesday night. Ona E. McGovney, clerk of the school board gave a brief explanation of the school plans.

N. F. Heiman gave a lengthy discourse on the new school building setting forth that the bid of $30,000 did not include the cost of plumbing and heating which it is understood are separate items. Mr. Heiman pointed out that he had read every word of the specifications and found the plans to be the very best, and all available foot of floor space was utilized.

The building will consist of four rooms and will face the west. It will be built on the east end of the school lot, this being the highest point in the land which slopes toward the west.

Mr. Heiman stated that the heating system is an ideal one combining both ventilation and heating. There will be no radiators on the floor, but these will be built in the walls grill like.

The rooms will be equipped with indoor toilets, and there will be drinking fountains. Septic tanks will be built to take care of the toilet facilities as there is no sewer system in the village.

Mr. McGovney stated that the contract has not been awarded as yet on account of a bond question which has arisen between the school board and the lowest bidder, the Schillinger Company of Chicago. Mr. McGovney further stated that this concern is an old one, having built the Joliet Citizens Brewery building some 40 years ago.

There will be no hurry on the part of the school board to get the school started, as they are following the advice of their attorney O. R. Laraway of Joliet to the letter and if there are any mistakes it will not be the fault of the board, Mr. McGovney said.

The new school will have a gymnasium 40x60 feet which will also have a stage. This room can be used for an auditorium and will seat approximately 400 people.

Ground will not be broken for about five or six weeks and the new structure will not be completed before next spring, according to Mr. Heiman.

John Balaz, president of the P. T. A., called the attention of the P. T. A. to the need for a skating rink next winter and referred to the fact that last winter a rink had been planned, but was started too late, so the proposition fell thru. A committee consisting of N. F. Heiman, Paul Roesser and Frank Hirsch, Jr., was appointed to look after the skating rink matter for next winter.

Mr. Balaz stated that he had conferred with the Rock Island railroad officials in regards to cutting weeds and otherwise beautifying railroad

Southwest Highway To Orland, Reality

The long dreamed of Southwest Highway which has been agitated for many years and which has been receiving a great deal of attention within the last few years, is now becoming a reality and the Orland booster who have been working on this project for years are now realizing the fruits of their untiring labors.

In 1925 the Southwest Towns Chamber of Commerce was organized at Oak Lawn with Dr. W. R. Schussler of Orland Park as president for the purpose of the county interested in the Southwest Highway and in building same.

For sometime this highway received much attention and then lay dormant. Considerable difficulty arose at Oak Lawn regarding the right of way. At last this was ironed out and contracts were let for the paving of this highway from 79th street out.

The routing of this highway was at one time suggested to run parallel with the Wabash railroad to Marley, but finally the routing was definitely established to end at 143rd street Orland Park for the time being. The way the routing is now the Southwest Highway will run along the west side of the Wabash railroad thru Oak Lawn, Chicago Ridge, Worth, Palos Park and Orland. At the latter place it will connect with 143rd street north of the Wabash depot.

That the building of this highway is now to become a reality is now assured since contracts have been let the past week by the Cook County board on two sections of this highway from Orland Park north-eastward as follows:

Section S of the Southwest Highway was awarded to James C. O'Keefe for $232,316.47 and the Fullerton Construction Co. was given the contract for Section A of this road for $107,936.

This is to be a 40 foot road and according to the Chicago Tribune all 40 foot roads for which contracts have been let will be completed this summer.

The new highway will mean much toward the upbuilding of all the communities thru which it passes.

Homer To Have Concrete Road

Bids on state route 53 from Lockport thru Will and Cook counties to the Ind. state line will be received within the next 30 days it was recently announced by Governor Len Small, during a road conference with the Cook county highway officials.

Public hearing to determine the location of this road was held several months ago and right of way papers for the highway are now being prepared which will be sent to Will H. Smith, Will County Supt., of highways.

Route 53 will provide a paved highway thru Homer township in Will County in a section which has no direct connection with paved roads.

May Drain Orland Park Sloughs

Last week a representative of the Sanitary District Board of Chicago called in Orland Park and stated that as complaint had been lodged with the board about a swamp north west of Orland as being a breeding place for mosquitos and malaria fever, it would be drained within the next two weeks, also the slough northeast of Orland which at one time was talked of as being slated for an artificial lake by the county. Drainage of these pools will also affect the drainage problems of Orland Park as considerable drainage water empties into these pools it is understood.

property around the Mokena depot and that an official of the company was here last week to look over the situation. This official with Mr. Balaz and Mrs. Brown went over the matter of filling in the low spot west of the Mall Coal sheds. Mr. Balaz said the railroad official said his company had a fund set aside for beautifying railroad depot grounds and that the board of directors will have to say what amount is to be spent at Mokena for this purpose.

The next meeting will be held the fourth Tuesday in August at which time an ice cream social will be held in connection with the meeting.

Vice-President Dawes To Speak At G. O. P. Picnic

The Will County G. O. P. will hold a big pow-wow and love feast this coming Sunday afternoon when they will hold a basket picnic at Highland Park east of Joliet.

Charles G. Dawes, vice-president of the United States and Senator Charles S. Deneen will be the noted speakers slated to appear.

Elmer Francis, Chicago, one of the members of the committee on arrangements, told Walter G. Krohn, county treasurer, who has charge of local arrangements, that Mr. Dawes and Senator Deneen had assured the committee they would be present Sunday.

Representatives from G. O. P. organizations in Lake, Cook, Grundy and Will counties will attend the gathering. All of the wards of Chicago are to be represented but the big delegations will come from the 25th, 27th and 30th wards, men, women and children.

The Chicago contingent will bring a baseball team to be opposed by the Speed Boys, who will be playing on that occasion in the Emmerson-Carlstrom league.

Louis L. Emmerson, republican nominee for governor, will be here if possible, Mr. Krohn said, but there is no certainty that he can make the necessary arrangements. Oscar E. Carlstrom republican choice for attorney general, will not be here.

The attorney general has other engagements which will prevent him from coming to Joliet Sunday, according to Mr. Krohn.

Special trains over the Rock Island will bring hundreds of the Chicago contingent to Joliet.

Markers are being placed on the roads this week to guide those who come by automobile.

Every Republican voter is invited to attend. The newly organized Mokena Emmerson - Republican Club will be out in full force.

Pin Taken From Throat By Magnet

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nicolai swallowed an open safety pin one day last week. Mrs. Nicolai tried to get the pin out of the child's throat with her fingers but the pin worked further down instead. The infant was rushed to the Mercy hospital, Chicago where the pin was removed with the aid of a magnet. The child is home again none the worse for its exciting experience.

New Lenox Lions Banquet Big Affair

The New Lenox Lions Charter Night banquet held at the M. E. church parlors Friday night was a gala affair. Over one hundred Lions were present, the largest delegation coming from Tinley Park. Other towns represented were Joliet, Aurora, Orland Park, Chicago Heights.

The Ladies Aid of the M. E. church prepared and served the banquet and the guests were loud in their praise of the fine menu.

Music was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. George C. Petersen. Mrs. Ray Osmus sang and Mrs. Fred Francis gave a reading.

Joseph R. Adams, Lions Governor of Illinois, gave a fine address and presented the charter to the club. In the course of his address Mr. Adams showed that the Lions clubs are not motivated for mercenary gain, but are for service and for bettering and up building communities and for building character. He outlined the high motives of the organization. He stated that New Lenox is the smallest town in the state to have a Lions Club.

Ceward W. Batson, president of the New Lenox Lions Club responded and said that the local organization would do their best to carry out the spirit of Lionism in New Lenox and use their best efforts to make New Lenox a better community in which to live due to having a Lions Club in their midst.

Rev. Morrison C. Galloway served as toastmaster. The officers of the Lions Club are as follows: President, Ceward W. Batson; vice-president, George C. Petersen; secretary and treasurer, Ray Osmus; directors, Arvid Swanson, Frank Roblin, A. W. Walsh and Frederick A. Francis.

MOKENA LOCAL BOARD OF IMPROVEMENTS PLANS $53,318 WATER SYSTEM

Plans calling for the expenditure of $53,318 for the improvement and extension of the present water works system of Mokena were considered by the Mokena Local Board of Improvements at their meeting Wednesday night. The plans call for a very comprehensive water system which will take care of every part of the incorporate limits of the village. All the cost of this improvement is to be met by special assessment. Only property which is improved will be assessed. Property along which the water mains are already laid will not be assessed.

There are two sections to these plans. The first section calls for the improvement of Revere road and other streets in the recently annexed McIntosh sub-division to the north of Mokena and the following number of feet of mains, etc., will be required at the estimated cost given as embodied in a resolution adopted by the board: 3,800 lineal feet of 8 inch water main $8,360.00; 20 four inch double nozzle hydrants, connections, etc., $2,000.00; 4 eight inch double gates, etc., $240.00; 6 six inch gates, etc., $240.00; Engineering and inspection $910.00; Estimated cost $20,000.00.

Six per cent of the estimated cost to be applied toward the payment of lawful expenses as provided for by Sec. 94 of the Local Improvement Act $1,200.00.

Total estimate $21,200.00

The resolution as adopted sets August 9th as the date for a public hearing in the village hall at Mokena at 7 p. m., standard time to consider the above. All property owners in the subdivision will receive notices from the clerk of the board to attend this hearing at which time they may file objections if they have any.

In order to make the water system a comprehensive one the old incorporated part of the village in which the present water mains are not laid or only partly laid is next to be considered. At the meeting on August 9th the Local Board of Improvements will adopt a resolution which will call for the following estimates:

4500 lineal feet of 8 inch water main $9,900; 9,300 feet 6 inch water main $15,345; 26 double nozzle hydrants $2,600; 5 eight inch double gates, etc., $300.00; 20 six inch double gates, etc., $800.00; Engineering fees and inspection $1,355; Amount of estimate $31,118.00.

Streets to be improved by the extension of the water mains are: First, Second, Third, Denny Ave., Mokena Street, Union Street, Cross Street, Niethammer Ave., Carpenter Street and several smaller streets having no names. Work on this improvement will not start until next year and the cost will all be met by special assessment. A public hearing date will be set at the August 9th meeting of the Local Board of Improvements.

Kelker Deleow of Chicago are the engineers. Howard Schlutz of Joliet is the attorney for the Local Board of Improvements.

Correction

Through a typographical error was stated last week that the New Lenox Chautauqua dates were July 22-26 should have read July 26 to 30.

To Organize Will Co., Sun. Schools

A movement is on foot to organize the Sunday schools or Church schools of the Protestant churches in Will County into a body to carry on the work of the Church schools in a more systematic manner. The aid of the pastors and superintendents of the various churches throughout the county is being solicited to make possible the perfection of such an organization.

At one time there was a county organization known as the Will County Sunday School Association. It appears that the matter of Sunday School organization did not progress much thruout the county.

Recently the Will County Council of Religious Education was formed as a successor to the old association and an effort is being made to enlist the co-operation of all Protestant pastors and Church school superintendents in the county to work in conjunction with the county council toward unified church school work.

A meeting was held last Sunday at the First Presbyterian church, Joliet at which plans were discussed how to get in touch with the various church schools in the county and for holding a big get-together county convention to get the young people together. It was voted to hold the convention the afternoon and evening of October 21st at the First Presbyterian church. In the evening a supper will be served.

The present officers of the Will County Council of Religious Education are as follows:-

President, Ray Carr, Naperville; Secretary - Treasurer, Mrs. Arthur Stark, Plainfield; Vice Presidents, Mrs. Warren Klett, Plainfield; Miss

(continued on back page)

It's An Old Story

Yet it's always worth repeating—this telling you to strive for FINANCIAL LIBERTY! It should be the aim of every foresighted, right-thinking man or woman. For, there's no contentment so great, no happiness so complete as knowing that you can face the uncertainties of the future without a single financial worry!

If you haven't started your battle for that FINANCIAL FREEDOM, get going now! Open a Savings Account with us today!

Orland State Bank

ORLAND PARK, ILL.
Telephone 61

KINDLING WOOD from OLD FREIGHT CARS, also BLOCKS 1, 2 and 3 feet LONG
SUITABLE FOR STOVES, FURNACES AND FIREPLACES. ALSO SECOND HAND LUMBER WHICH CAN BE USED IN BUILDING GARAGES, BARNs, FENCES, CRIBS, ETC. A VISIT TO US WILL SAVE YOU AT LEAST 50 PER CENT IN BUILDING COSTS.

BLUE ISLAND, ILLINOIS
139th St. 1 Block East of Western Avenue—Phone B. 1. 157

BRIGGS & TURIVAS

CHICAGO HEIGHTS, ILLINOIS
17th St. & Wentworth Avenue
Phone Chicago Heights 292

The RETURN of ANTHONY TRENT

by WYNDHAM
MARTYN

COPYRIGHT BY BARS & HOPKINS

W.N.U. SERVICE

CHAPTER VIII—Continued

It was not easy for him, tonight, to give his attention to the dancing. The hours passed with intolerable slowness. He knew that not until every guest had gone, and those staying in the house were asleep, would the dangerous Pierre Redlich evolve from the somber, square-shouldered detective. The Bixels did not stay late. In a sense their going broke up the party. They were so socially pre-eminent that the lesser lights did not care to remain. At two the last motor had rolled down the drive. By three there was not a light in any window. The men had become tired and the women knew the value of sleep.

Redlich had abandoned his resemblance to a rugged guardian of the law. He was crafty, creeping and sly. Tonight he was determined to take no risks. He wanted to make certain that Anthony Trent had gone to bed and was not about to patrol the exterior of the house. But he assumed the Yeatman carriage as he knocked upon Trent's door.

After a pause a sleepy voice bade him enter. Redlich saw that Trent had been compelled to rise from his bed, assume a dressing gown and come into the sitting room of his suite. He was not in his customary good temper.

"You are the third," he began crossly, "who has tried to prevent me from sleeping. First, Mr. Gimberty wanted me to share sentry-go with him. Secondly, Payson Grant thought I ought to be out there on the wet grass looking for burglars in every bush. And now you come. What's your especial grievance?"

"Merely to suggest that you might desire to patrol the grounds with me," Redlich was smiling amiably. "I am going now."

"Then you go alone," said Anthony Trent irritably. "What's this conspiracy to make me a martyr for another man's house and lot?"

Then he paused as though struck by a sudden perplexing thought.

"What's it to do with you? Why should an accountant figure in a thing like this?"

"The time is come," said the other impressively, "to tell you the truth. I am a detective engaged by Mrs. Grant to protect her guests."

He was gratified at the astonishment he had produced.

Redlich had never liked Trent. He could see that over this young man they thought so bold and debonaire fear was creeping.

"Is there any danger, do you suppose?"

"We hope not," Redlich answered, "but I shall not sleep tonight. I shall watch particularly this floor, because it is here that they will come for the jewels. I shall not ask any lurking creature what his business is. I shall shoot."

It was plain that Anthony Trent did not relish danger so close at hand.

"I'm going to lock my door," he said firmly, "and that's a thing I never do."

When he had closed Trent's door and heard the key turn in the lock Redlich made a gesture of vulgar derision at the bolted door.

On his side of it, Anthony Trent was chuckling softly. What infernal impudence for a crook like Redlich to think he could outwit or outgame the man who had been the master criminal!

He did not waste much time in laughing. Pulling the shades down he took from a locked trunk the second of the bathing suits he had bought that afternoon.

It was a suit of knitted wool, black in color, which covered him from neck to toe. The sleeves were wrist length. On his head he put an aviator's casque; to this he strapped an automatic pistol.

When the lights were put out, the shades raised and the window softly opened, he drew on the same heavy gloves he had used to climb the lightning rod, and lowered himself to the marble terrace. He had noticed from his window that the white masthead light of the steamer was oscillating far more markedly than on the previous night. It was a symptom of the sea, which was growing rougher.

When he came near the bathing houses Trent could at first detect nothing. Then his straining eyes made out, just beyond the white fringe of surf, a boat rising and falling in the tide. He could see, every now and then, that a man at the oars had to work to keep the boat in the same position. Plainly he was waiting midway between shore and ship. And Trent guessed shrewdly that he was waiting for Pierre Redlich.

Anthony Trent hoped Redlich would succeed. He had two principal accounts against him. The first was his maltreatment of Mademoiselle Dupin. The other was the poisoning of the dogs.

The man in the boat, leaning on his oars and dreaming of the ease Redlich's work would bring him, did not see anything at which to be alarmed during his vigil. He wished his leader would make haste. These summer storms along the Jersey coast had an almost tropical violence at times.

So fixed were his eyes on the spot where the signals would flash that he had no idea a swimmer passed a few yards from him. The men on the tramp were leaning anxiously over the vessel's side when the black-clad swimmer clambered up the anchor chains, got a grip of the hawse-hole opening, and pulled himself on deck. Merging into the black night he crept to the unoccupied bridge and climbed to the top of the little deckhouse. Here, where no light shone on him, none would look for invaders.

Although Redlich's launch was swamped he clambered safely aboard the broad-beamed rowboat and was pulled to the side of La Belle Alliance.

The captain, cheered at the news of complete success, took the wheel, signaling his orders, put the vessel into the teeth of the wind and stood out to sea. In the cabin Redlich was describing his exploits.

The sense of achievement led to much boasting. He described, with scornful laughter, the kind of people he had lived among for the past week and had fooled so neatly. And in his jeers he remembered, with special emphasis, Anthony Trent.

The men about him made him repeat how he had won his victories. They laughed particularly at Gimberty, who had finally been beaten and robbed of a diamond of five carats which Redlich flashed before them.

No person in the Grant household had been more puzzled than Thorpe the butler when, during the dancing, Trent drew him aside.

"Thorpe," said Trent, "I'm on the track of the man who poisoned those two dogs. I take it you'd like to be in at the death."

Thorpe breathed heavily. "I hope I'll get the chance."

"I'm going to give it to you. Now pay great attention to what I say."

Thorpe listened wide-eyed with astonishment when he heard.

"It's like a book, sir," said Thorpe, "it's like the sort of book I fancy something red-blooded."

"Books don't all have happy endings," Trent reminded him. "I'm not too sure of this. Remember all of you must be armed and all of you must have flashlights. There'll possibly be no need to shoot, but every man of the bunch must be captured or I shall be branded as the prize fool. You understand," he said as the music stopped, "that one incutious move on the part of you and your men, the lighting of one match or the smell of tobacco smoke, may rob you of all this fun. As for me, well I don't want to think of what they'll say to me if anything goes wrong."

The captain of the tramp steamer La Belle Alliance was reflecting on the perils of the sea and the unfortunate accidents which often occur, and associating Pierre Redlich with some of the most deadly, when he stared into the mouth of a blue-black barrel. Behind the weapon was a most surprising being. In the dim light it looked as though some strange creature of the sea had risen from his kingdom to invade that of man. Tall, dripping wet, and crested in an inhuman manner, this apparition advanced closer until the captain gasped with a certain emotion of relief when he saw he had to do with a man.

But a man with a loaded pistol may not be welcomed as a friend in situations of this sort. There was menace in the eyes that stared into those of the captain.

"I've taken charge," said Anthony Trent, "and if I hear anything from you you go back the way I came."

He made a free and sweeping gesture toward the open sea. Keeping his weapon pointed to the sailor, Trent stooped and picked up a small coil of rope. Hardly resisting, the captain was bound hand and foot. Then he was shoved into a corner and Trent took the wheel.

The wind was freshening from the east. The storm long expected was at hand.

Only the captain knew that the madman at the wheel was altering the course of the vessel.

On shore Thorpe, the footman, and the four men from the garage were waiting in states of varying excitement. Thorpe would tell them no more than there was danger ahead, and probably, monetary reward for it.

In his struggle to gain the very position he now occupied, Trent had somewhat lost sight of the ending of the adventure. He was doing a fool-hardy trick, and it might cost him a great deal. Incidentally it might cost him his life. There was no moon to show him the landmarks on which he relied. He signaled half-speed-ahead, and strained his eyes to see. Presently the white line of breakers showed ahead. And then, lifting itself above the waterside mist, he saw the white Italian palace Guggensohn had built.

Now that he was sure of his direction, and knew he was headed for the abandoned harbor, he signaled full-speed-ahead. It was one of the most thrilling moments of his life when he saw La Belle Alliance dart forward and begin to climb the private beach. A wave lifted her so high at the last that her blunt old bow smashed the ornamental bathing-houses and came to a shuddering rest among the splintered wood. It would have been impossible to have a prettier landing. Piled up on a beach, and not for the first time, lay La Belle Alliance.

At least, Trent thought, there need be no loss by drowning through his exploit. Eight men came swarming up on deck having no idea where they were. They wasted no time in cursing an unskillful captain. They saw the shining sands and they heard the breakers behind them, and they leaped ashore.

Thorpe's instructions, while concise, had not been explanatory. He had been bidden gather his six men and keep them hidden in an unlighted garage until the moment came. The particular moment was to be indicated by Mr. Yeatman himself, who would act all unconsciously. The amazing news was that this Yeatman, so far from being a detective, was a burglar, and a dangerous one. Should Yeatman discover Thorpe spying upon him Trent thought he would shoot the butler, unless the butler was quicker with the gun.

It had been a moment of the utmost tenseness when Yeatman passed within five feet of the watching butler, and even stopped for a moment as though listening.

Thorpe's six men, denied the little knowledge of the matter he possessed, kept silence admirably. They were conscious of a certain mysterious sense of imminent danger. Crouched on the damp sand they waited for some terror to creep upon them from the deep.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Behind the Weapon Was a Most Surprising Being.

naled his orders, put the vessel into the teeth of the wind and stood out to sea. In the cabin Redlich was describing his exploits.

The sense of achievement led to much boasting. He described, with scornful laughter, the kind of people he had lived among for the past week and had fooled so neatly. And in his jeers he remembered, with special emphasis, Anthony Trent.

The men about him made him repeat how he had won his victories. They laughed particularly at Gimberty, who had finally been beaten and robbed of a diamond of five carats which Redlich flashed before them.

No person in the Grant household had been more puzzled than Thorpe the butler when, during the dancing, Trent drew him aside.

"Thorpe," said Trent, "I'm on the track of the man who poisoned those two dogs. I take it you'd like to be in at the death."

Thorpe breathed heavily. "I hope I'll get the chance."

"I'm going to give it to you. Now pay great attention to what I say."

Thorpe listened wide-eyed with astonishment when he heard.

"It's like a book, sir," said Thorpe, "it's like the sort of book I fancy something red-blooded."

"Books don't all have happy endings," Trent reminded him. "I'm not too sure of this. Remember all of you must be armed and all of you must have flashlights. There'll possibly be no need to shoot, but every man of the bunch must be captured or I shall be branded as the prize fool. You understand," he said as the music stopped, "that one incutious move on the part of you and your men, the lighting of one match or the smell of tobacco smoke, may rob you of all this fun. As for me, well I don't want to think of what they'll say to me if anything goes wrong."

The captain of the tramp steamer La Belle Alliance was reflecting on the perils of the sea and the unfortunate accidents which often occur, and associating Pierre Redlich with some of the most deadly, when he stared into the mouth of a blue-black barrel. Behind the weapon was a most surprising being. In the dim light it looked as though some strange creature of the sea had risen from his kingdom to invade that of man. Tall, dripping wet, and crested in an inhuman manner, this apparition advanced closer until the captain gasped with a certain emotion of relief when he saw he had to do with a man.

But a man with a loaded pistol may not be welcomed as a friend in situations of this sort. There was menace in the eyes that stared into those of the captain.

"I've taken charge," said Anthony Trent, "and if I hear anything from you you go back the way I came."

He made a free and sweeping gesture toward the open sea. Keeping his weapon pointed to the sailor, Trent stooped and picked up a small coil of rope. Hardly resisting, the captain was bound hand and foot. Then he was shoved into a corner and Trent took the wheel.

The wind was freshening from the east. The storm long expected was at hand.

Only the captain knew that the madman at the wheel was altering the course of the vessel.

On shore Thorpe, the footman, and the four men from the garage were waiting in states of varying excitement. Thorpe would tell them no more than there was danger ahead, and probably, monetary reward for it.

In his struggle to gain the very position he now occupied, Trent had somewhat lost sight of the ending of the adventure. He was doing a fool-hardy trick, and it might cost him a great deal. Incidentally it might cost him his life. There was no moon to show him the landmarks on which he relied. He signaled half-speed-ahead, and strained his eyes to see. Presently the white line of breakers showed ahead. And then, lifting itself above the waterside mist, he saw the white Italian palace Guggensohn had built.

Now that he was sure of his direction, and knew he was headed for the abandoned harbor, he signaled full-speed-ahead. It was one of the most thrilling moments of his life when he saw La Belle Alliance dart forward and begin to climb the private beach. A wave lifted her so high at the last that her blunt old bow smashed the ornamental bathing-houses and came to a shuddering rest among the splintered wood. It would have been impossible to have a prettier landing. Piled up on a beach, and not for the first time, lay La Belle Alliance.

At least, Trent thought, there need be no loss by drowning through his exploit. Eight men came swarming up on deck having no idea where they were. They wasted no time in cursing an unskillful captain. They saw the shining sands and they heard the breakers behind them, and they leaped ashore.

Thorpe's instructions, while concise, had not been explanatory. He had been bidden gather his six men and keep them hidden in an unlighted garage until the moment came. The particular moment was to be indicated by Mr. Yeatman himself, who would act all unconsciously. The amazing news was that this Yeatman, so far from being a detective, was a burglar, and a dangerous one. Should Yeatman discover Thorpe spying upon him Trent thought he would shoot the butler, unless the butler was quicker with the gun.

It had been a moment of the utmost tenseness when Yeatman passed within five feet of the watching butler, and even stopped for a moment as though listening.

Thorpe's six men, denied the little knowledge of the matter he possessed, kept silence admirably. They were conscious of a certain mysterious sense of imminent danger. Crouched on the damp sand they waited for some terror to creep upon them from the deep.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Behind the Weapon Was a Most Surprising Being.

naled his orders, put the vessel into the teeth of the wind and stood out to sea. In the cabin Redlich was describing his exploits.

The sense of achievement led to much boasting. He described, with scornful laughter, the kind of people he had lived among for the past week and had fooled so neatly. And in his jeers he remembered, with special emphasis, Anthony Trent.

The men about him made him repeat how he had won his victories. They laughed particularly at Gimberty, who had finally been beaten and robbed of a diamond of five carats which Redlich flashed before them.

No person in the Grant household had been more puzzled than Thorpe the butler when, during the dancing, Trent drew him aside.

"Thorpe," said Trent, "I'm on the track of the man who poisoned those two dogs. I take it you'd like to be in at the death."

Thorpe breathed heavily. "I hope I'll get the chance."

"I'm going to give it to you. Now pay great attention to what I say."

Thorpe listened wide-eyed with astonishment when he heard.

"It's like a book, sir," said Thorpe, "it's like the sort of book I fancy something red-blooded."

"Books don't all have happy endings," Trent reminded him. "I'm not too sure of this. Remember all of you must be armed and all of you must have flashlights. There'll possibly be no need to shoot, but every man of the bunch must be captured or I shall be branded as the prize fool. You understand," he said as the music stopped, "that one incutious move on the part of you and your men, the lighting of one match or the smell of tobacco smoke, may rob you of all this fun. As for me, well I don't want to think of what they'll say to me if anything goes wrong."

The captain of the tramp steamer La Belle Alliance was reflecting on the perils of the sea and the unfortunate accidents which often occur, and associating Pierre Redlich with some of the most deadly, when he stared into the mouth of a blue-black barrel. Behind the weapon was a most surprising being. In the dim light it looked as though some strange creature of the sea had risen from his kingdom to invade that of man. Tall, dripping wet, and crested in an inhuman manner, this apparition advanced closer until the captain gasped with a certain emotion of relief when he saw he had to do with a man.

But a man with a loaded pistol may not be welcomed as a friend in situations of this sort. There was menace in the eyes that stared into those of the captain.

"I've taken charge," said Anthony Trent, "and if I hear anything from you you go back the way I came."

He made a free and sweeping gesture toward the open sea. Keeping his weapon pointed to the sailor, Trent stooped and picked up a small coil of rope. Hardly resisting, the captain was bound hand and foot. Then he was shoved into a corner and Trent took the wheel.

The wind was freshening from the east. The storm long expected was at hand.

Only the captain knew that the madman at the wheel was altering the course of the vessel.

On shore Thorpe, the footman, and the four men from the garage were waiting in states of varying excitement. Thorpe would tell them no more than there was danger ahead, and probably, monetary reward for it.

In his struggle to gain the very position he now occupied, Trent had somewhat lost sight of the ending of the adventure. He was doing a fool-hardy trick, and it might cost him a great deal. Incidentally it might cost him his life. There was no moon to show him the landmarks on which he relied. He signaled half-speed-ahead, and strained his eyes to see. Presently the white line of breakers showed ahead. And then, lifting itself above the waterside mist, he saw the white Italian palace Guggensohn had built.

Now that he was sure of his direction, and knew he was headed for the abandoned harbor, he signaled full-speed-ahead. It was one of the most thrilling moments of his life when he saw La Belle Alliance dart forward and begin to climb the private beach. A wave lifted her so high at the last that her blunt old bow smashed the ornamental bathing-houses and came to a shuddering rest among the splintered wood. It would have been impossible to have a prettier landing. Piled up on a beach, and not for the first time, lay La Belle Alliance.

At least, Trent thought, there need be no loss by drowning through his exploit. Eight men came swarming up on deck having no idea where they were. They wasted no time in cursing an unskillful captain. They saw the shining sands and they heard the breakers behind them, and they leaped ashore.

Thorpe's instructions, while concise, had not been explanatory. He had been bidden gather his six men and keep them hidden in an unlighted garage until the moment came. The particular moment was to be indicated by Mr. Yeatman himself, who would act all unconsciously. The amazing news was that this Yeatman, so far from being a detective, was a burglar, and a dangerous one. Should Yeatman discover Thorpe spying upon him Trent thought he would shoot the butler, unless the butler was quicker with the gun.

It had been a moment of the utmost tenseness when Yeatman passed within five feet of the watching butler, and even stopped for a moment as though listening.

Thorpe's six men, denied the little knowledge of the matter he possessed, kept silence admirably. They were conscious of a certain mysterious sense of imminent danger. Crouched on the damp sand they waited for some terror to creep upon them from the deep.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Behind the Weapon Was a Most Surprising Being.

naled his orders, put the vessel into the teeth of the wind and stood out to sea. In the cabin Redlich was describing his exploits.

The sense of achievement led to much boasting. He described, with scornful laughter, the kind of people he had lived among for the past week and had fooled so neatly. And in his jeers he remembered, with special emphasis, Anthony Trent.

The men about him made him repeat how he had won his victories. They laughed particularly at Gimberty, who had finally been beaten and robbed of a diamond of five carats which Redlich flashed before them.

No person in the Grant household had been more puzzled than Thorpe the butler when, during the dancing, Trent drew him aside.

"Thorpe," said Trent, "I'm on the track of the man who poisoned those two dogs. I take it you'd like to be in at the death."

Thorpe breathed heavily. "I hope I'll get the chance."

"I'm going to give it to you. Now pay great attention to what I say."

Thorpe listened wide-eyed with astonishment when he heard.

"It's like a book, sir," said Thorpe, "it's like the sort of book I fancy something red-blooded."

"Books don't all have happy endings," Trent reminded him. "I'm not too sure of this. Remember all of you must be armed and all of you must have flashlights. There'll possibly be no need to shoot, but every man of the bunch must be captured or I shall be branded as the prize fool. You understand," he said as the music stopped, "that one incutious move on the part of you and your men, the lighting of one match or the smell of tobacco smoke, may rob you of all this fun. As for me, well I don't want to think of what they'll say to me if anything goes wrong."

The captain of the tramp steamer La Belle Alliance was reflecting on the perils of the sea and the unfortunate accidents which often occur, and associating Pierre Redlich with some of the most deadly, when he stared into the mouth of a blue-black barrel. Behind the weapon was a most surprising being. In the dim light it looked as though some strange creature of the sea had risen from his kingdom to invade that of man. Tall, dripping wet, and crested in an inhuman manner, this apparition advanced closer until the captain gasped with a certain emotion of relief when he saw he had to do with a man.

But a man with a loaded pistol may not be welcomed as a friend in situations of this sort. There was menace in the eyes that stared into those of the captain.

"I've taken charge," said Anthony Trent, "and if I hear anything from you you go back the way I came."

He made a free and sweeping gesture toward the open sea. Keeping his weapon pointed to the sailor, Trent stooped and picked up a small coil of rope. Hardly resisting, the captain was bound hand and foot. Then he was shoved into a corner and Trent took the wheel.

The wind was freshening from the east. The storm long expected was at hand.

Only the captain knew that the madman at the wheel was altering the course of the vessel.

On shore Thorpe, the footman, and the four men from the garage were waiting in states of varying excitement. Thorpe would tell them no more than there was danger ahead, and probably, monetary reward for it.

In his struggle to gain the very position he now occupied, Trent had somewhat lost sight of the ending of the adventure. He was doing a fool-hardy trick, and it might cost him a great deal. Incidentally it might cost him his life. There was no moon to show him the landmarks on which he relied. He signaled half-speed-ahead, and strained his eyes to see. Presently the white line of breakers showed ahead. And then, lifting itself above the waterside mist, he saw the white Italian palace Guggensohn had built.

Now that he was sure of his direction, and knew he was headed for the abandoned harbor, he signaled full-speed-ahead. It was one of the most thrilling moments of his life when he saw La Belle Alliance dart forward and begin to climb the private beach. A wave lifted her so high at the last that her blunt old bow smashed the ornamental bathing-houses and came to a shuddering rest among the splintered wood. It would have been impossible to have a prettier landing. Piled up on a beach, and not for the first time, lay La Belle Alliance.

At least, Trent thought, there need be no loss by drowning through his exploit. Eight men came swarming up on deck having no idea where they were. They wasted no time in cursing an unskillful captain. They saw the shining sands and they heard the breakers behind them, and they leaped ashore.

Thorpe's instructions, while concise, had not been explanatory. He had been bidden gather his six men and keep them hidden in an unlighted garage until the moment came. The particular moment was to be indicated by Mr. Yeatman himself, who would act all unconsciously. The amazing news was that this Yeatman, so far from being a detective, was a burglar, and a dangerous one. Should Yeatman discover Thorpe spying upon him Trent thought he would shoot the butler, unless the butler was quicker with the gun.

It had been a moment of the utmost tenseness when Yeatman passed within five feet of the watching butler, and even stopped for a moment as though listening.

Thorpe's six men, denied the little knowledge of the matter he possessed, kept silence admirably. They were conscious of a certain mysterious sense of imminent danger. Crouched on the damp sand they waited for some terror to creep upon them from the deep.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Behind the Weapon Was a Most Surprising Being.

naled his orders, put the vessel into the teeth of the wind and stood out to sea. In the cabin Redlich was describing his exploits.

The sense of achievement led to much boasting. He described, with scornful laughter, the kind of people he had lived among for the past week and had fooled so neatly. And in his jeers he remembered, with special emphasis, Anthony Trent.

The men about him made him repeat how he had won his victories. They laughed particularly at Gimberty, who had finally been beaten and robbed of a diamond of five carats which Redlich flashed before them.

No person in the Grant household had been more puzzled than Thorpe the butler when, during the dancing, Trent drew him aside.

"Thorpe," said Trent, "I'm on the track of the man who poisoned those two dogs. I take it you'd like to be in at the death."

Thorpe breathed heavily. "I hope I'll get the chance."

"I'm going to give it to you. Now pay great attention to what I say."

Thorpe listened wide-eyed with astonishment when he heard.

"It's like a book, sir," said Thorpe, "it's like the sort of book I fancy something red-blooded."

"Books don't all have happy endings," Trent reminded him. "I'm not too sure of this. Remember all of you must be armed and all of you must have flashlights. There'll possibly be no need to shoot, but every man of the bunch must be captured or I shall be branded as the prize fool. You understand," he said as the music stopped, "that one incutious move on the part of you and your men, the lighting of one match or the smell of tobacco smoke, may rob you of all this fun. As for me, well I don't want to think of what they'll say to me if anything goes wrong."

The captain of the tramp steamer La Belle Alliance was reflecting on the perils of the sea and the unfortunate accidents which often occur, and associating Pierre Redlich with some of the most deadly, when he stared into the mouth of a blue-black barrel. Behind the weapon was a most surprising being. In the dim light it looked as though some strange creature of the sea had risen from his kingdom to invade that of man. Tall, dripping wet, and crested in an inhuman manner, this apparition advanced closer until the captain gasped with a certain emotion of relief when he saw he had to do with a man.

But a man with a loaded pistol may not be welcomed as a friend in situations of this sort. There was menace in the eyes that stared into those of the captain.

"I've taken charge," said Anthony Trent, "and if I hear anything from you you go back the way I came."

He made a free and sweeping gesture toward the open sea. Keeping his weapon pointed to the sailor, Trent stooped and picked up a small coil of rope. Hardly resisting, the captain was bound hand and foot. Then he was shoved into a corner and Trent took the wheel.

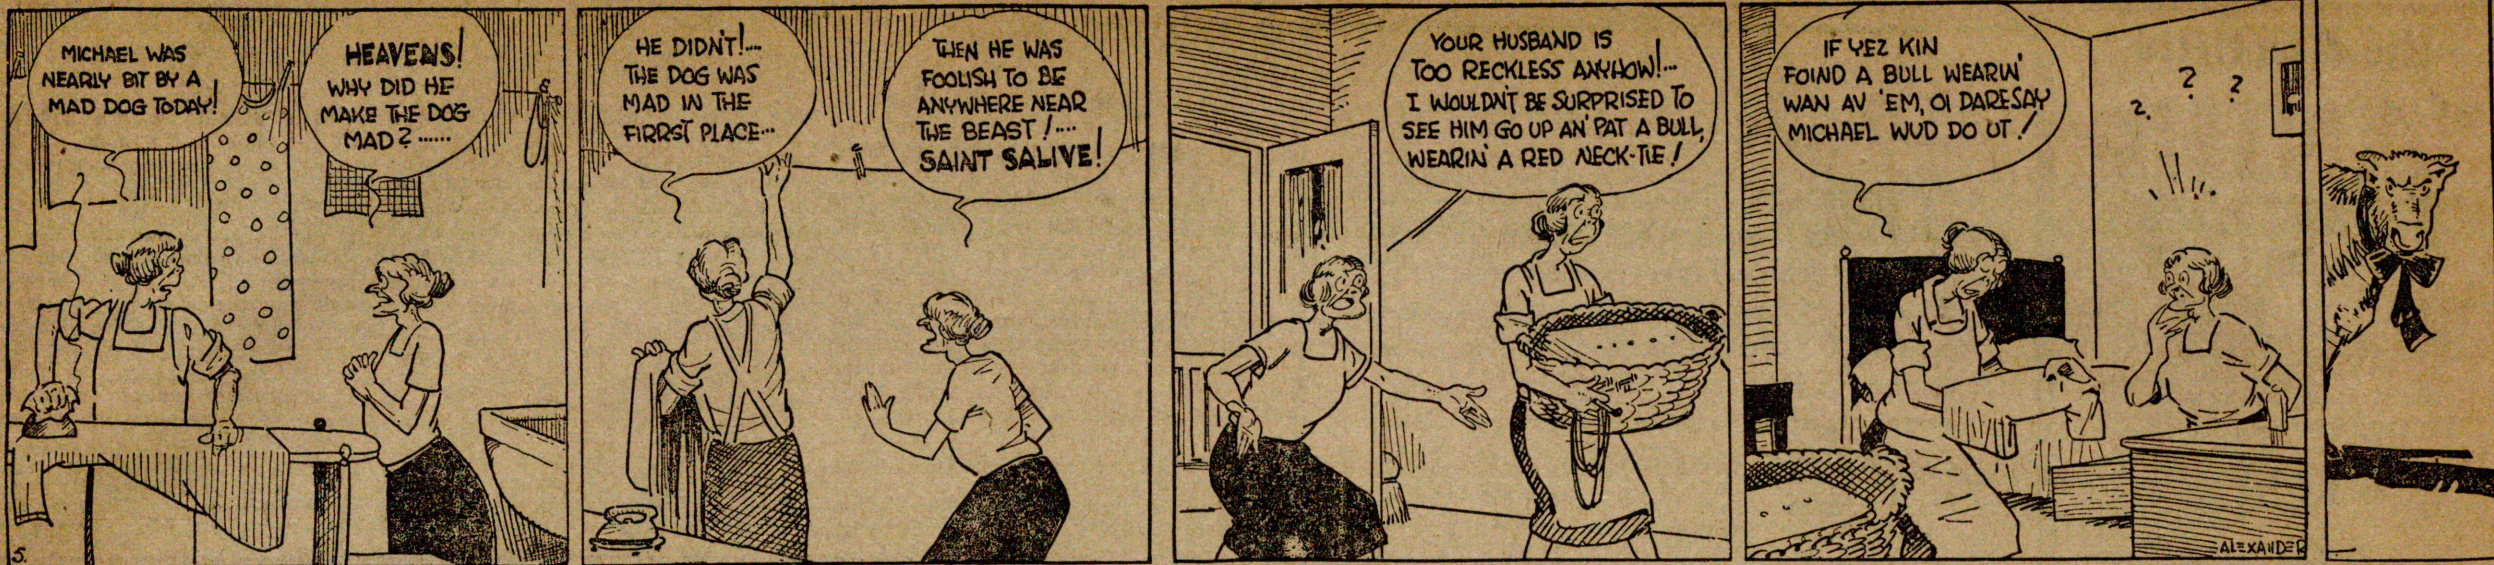

The wind was freshening from the east. The storm long expected was at hand.

Only the captain knew that the madman at the wheel was altering the course of the vessel.

On shore Thorpe, the footman, and the four men from the garage were waiting in states of varying excitement. Thorpe would tell them no more than there was danger ahead, and probably, monetary reward for it.

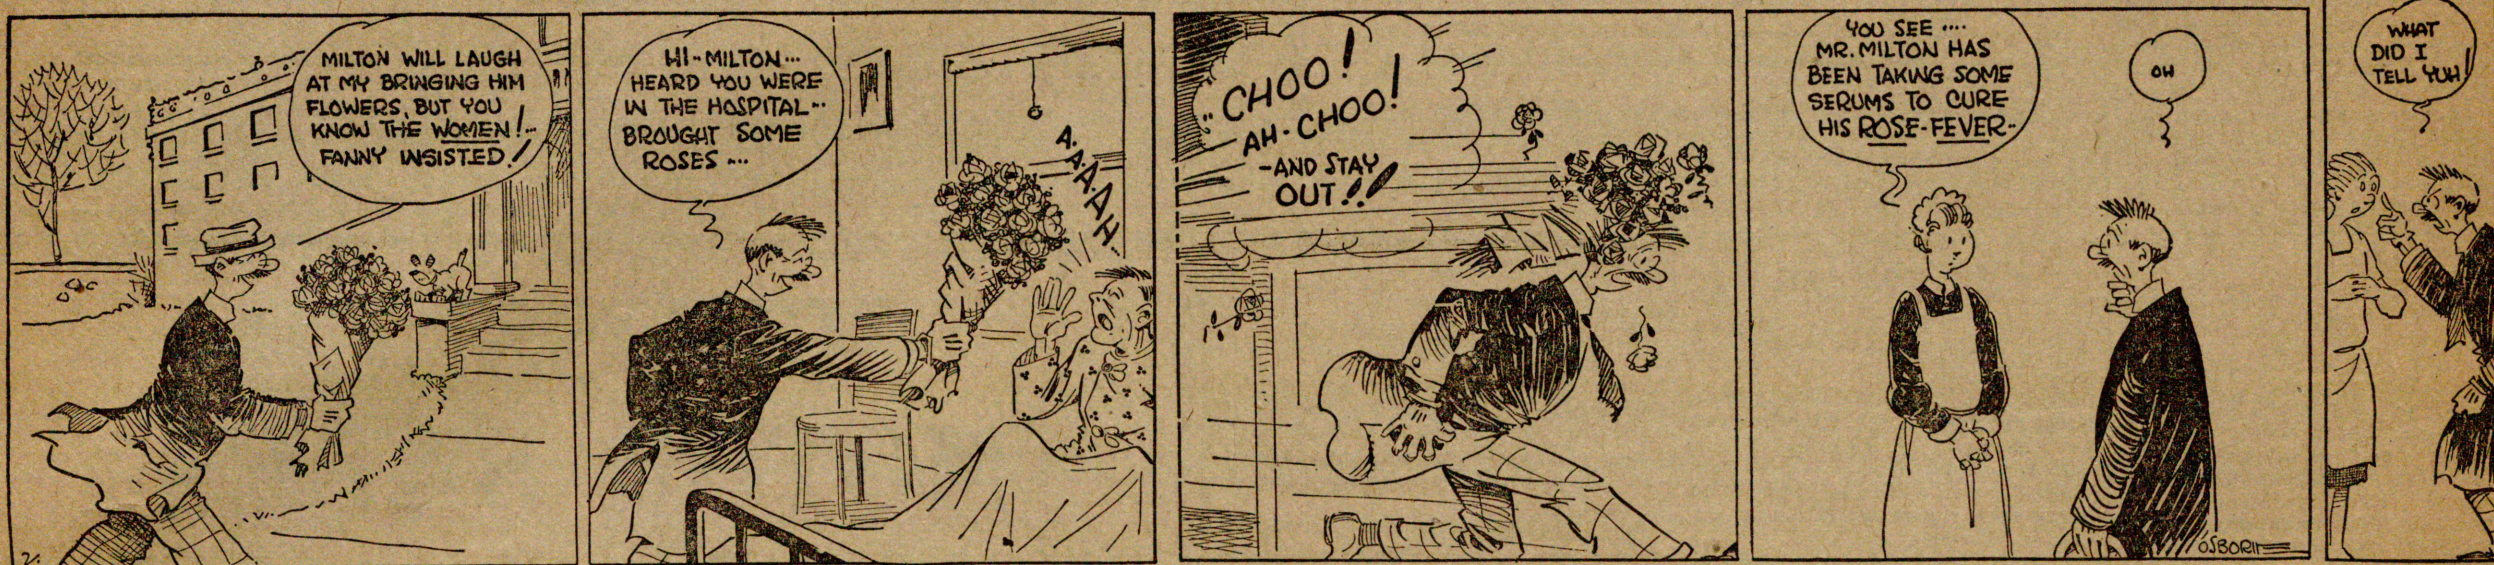

FINNEY OF THE FORCE

By F. O. Alexander
(© by Western Newspaper Union)

THE FEATHERHEADS

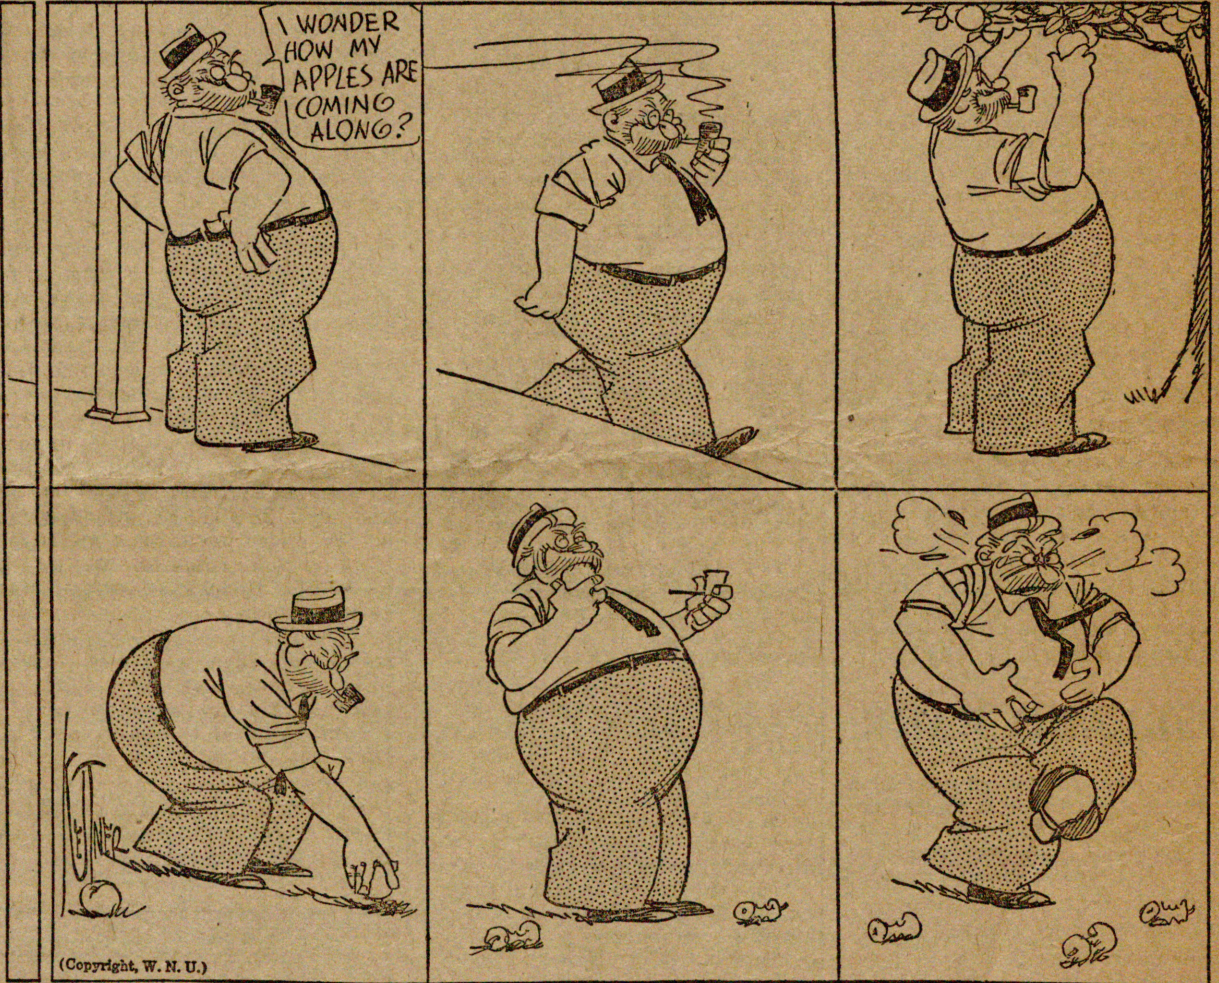

By Osborne
(© by Western Newspaper Union)

Near the Concrete

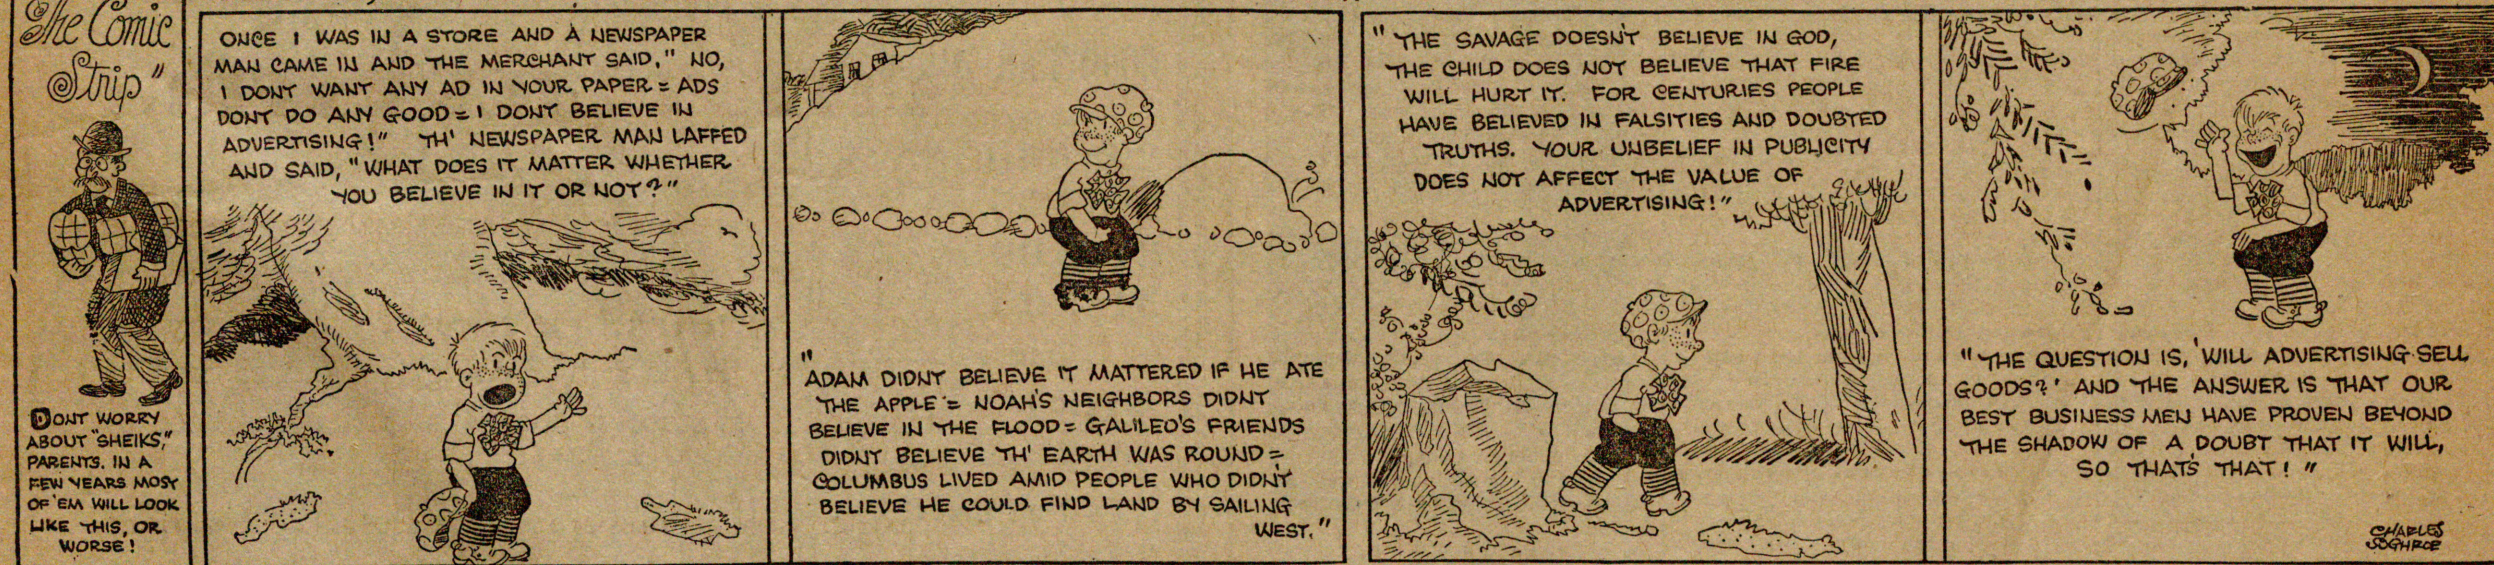

Our Pet Peeve

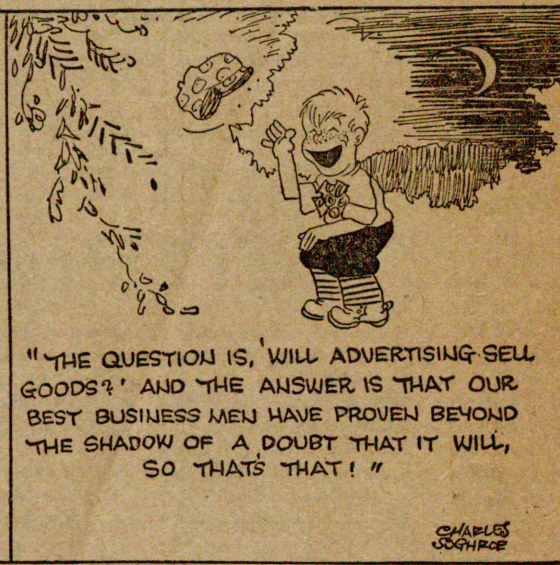

MICKIE, THE PRINTER'S DEVIL

By Charles Sughrue
(© Western Newspaper Union)

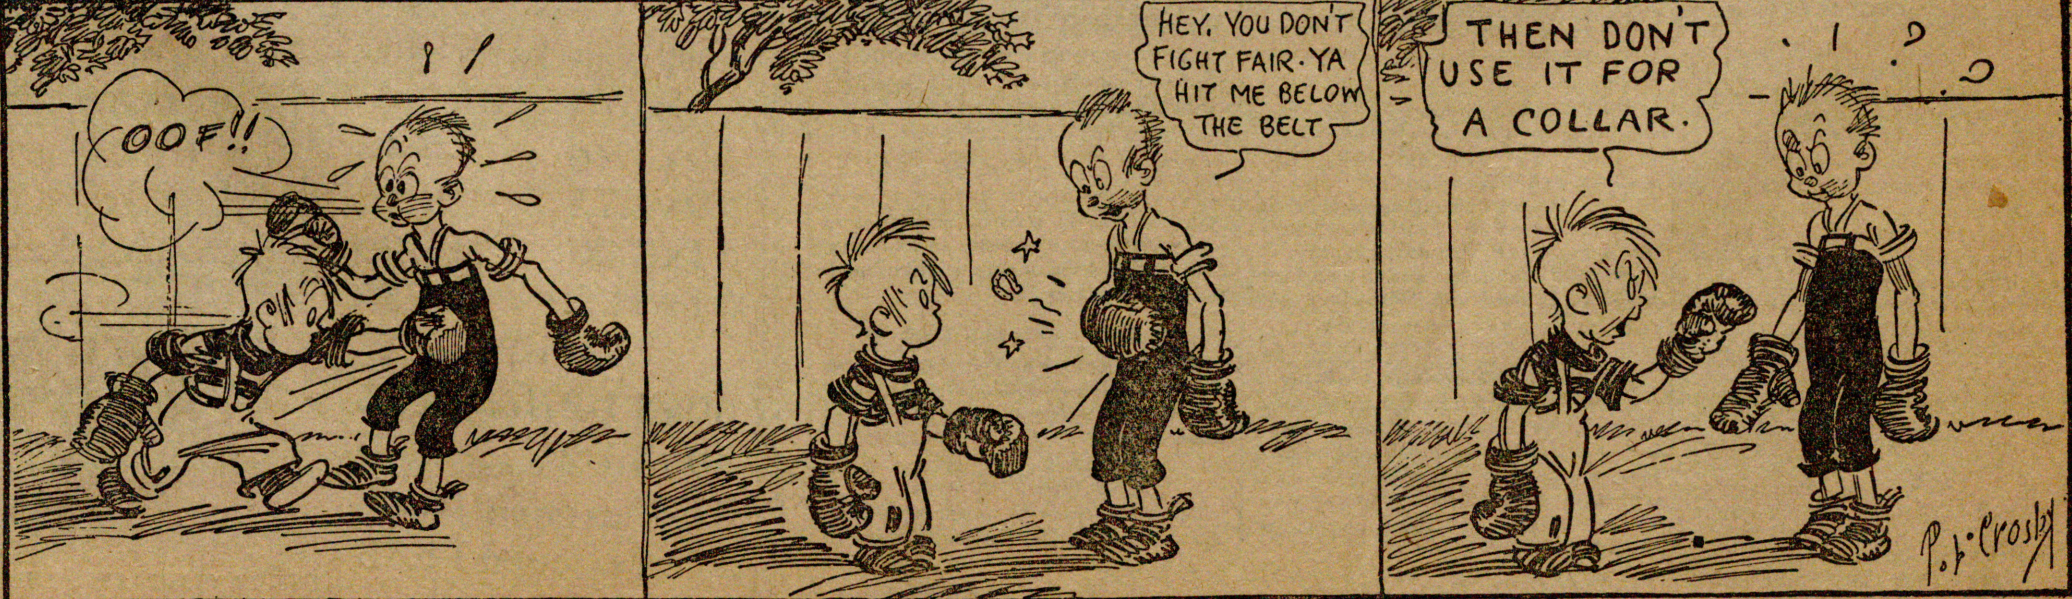

True Words

The Clancy Kids

We'll Call It a Draw

By PERCY L. CROSBY
(© by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

The News-Bulletin

Issued every Friday from the office of The News-Bulletin, Mokena, Will County, Illinois. Subscription price $1.50 per year. Single copies 5 cents.

Entered at the Mokena Post-Office as second class mail matter under Act of March, 1870. Established 1919. Independent in politics.

Chicago Advertising Representative, A. M. Levy, 6, North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

W.M. SEMMLER, Editor-Publisher.

NEW LENOX

Fifty-one members of the Batson family gathered for a family reunion on the banks of Hickory creek in the Harry Storms woods, Sunday, July 15. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Batson, of Joliet; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Osmus and son Howard; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Brown and sons, Wesley and Douglas; Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Batson; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Batson and children Marie, William and Eugene; Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Batson and son Robert; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Batson and son James; Mr. and Mrs. William Hobbs Jr., and son Glenn; Mrs. Jessie Pester and family; Mr. and Mrs. Ceward Batson, Jr.; Wilbur Rapson; Mr. and Mrs. William Drake and son; Mrs. Kate Batson; Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Batson and son; Donald and Dwight Batson; Mr. and Mrs. Woodcock and son; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parsons and Mrs. A. Froelich.

Everett and Paul Maina, Everette and Clarence Gullickson; Robert Swanson; Bruce Swinson; Robert Nelson and Raymond Beadle, boy scouts left Saturday for Rainbow camp for a ten days outing.

Mrs. Jacob has been visiting in the William Kramer home in Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Scherpe had as week end guests Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Scherpe, of Chicago.

Harlow Jensen who has been ill with tonsillitis is better.

David Lockwood who has been visiting with relatives in San Diego California for the past two weeks has returned to his home.

Mrs. Nellie Norman and Children of Decatur are visiting in the home of her sister, Mrs. Peter Sinclair and the home of her brother, Wm Sayers.

Mr. and Mrs. John Spuhler and children Howard and Ethel, are enjoying a motor trip thru the east.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Bethel entertained in their home in Hollywood Wednesday evening at a six o'clock dinner. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bath, Thomas and Margaret Beth of Ridgewood.

Mrs. Jacob Werner entertained 35 guests in her home Wednesday evening in honor of the 16th birthday of her daughter, Vera. Games formed the chief diversion and refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Paul Knapp.

The out-of-town guests were Misses Gertrude and Irene Kurth of Joliet and David Johnson of Chicago.

ORLAND PARK

The Congregation of the Christ Lutheran church held a special meeting last Monday night to vote on a new pastor to succeed Rev. W. C. Greve who has accepted a call to Hegewisch, Ill.

A call has been extended to a pastor at Dwight, Ill., to fill the local pulpit. In the meantime Rev. Mr. Lohman of Lemont will supply the pulpit until a new pastor is secured.

Rev. W. C. Greve preached his farewell sermon to the young people last Sunday. This Sunday he will preach his farewell sermon to the older members of the congregation.

Work has been started on building concrete walks in the subdivision across the street from the Zerb's building.

The concrete sidewalk program which was to have been carried out in other surrounding subdivisions has been postponed for the time being.

The people of Orland Park have been anxiously awaiting the installation of gas, but have been somewhat disappointed. The Public Service Company has finished laying their mains to the village along 143rd street but no branch lines have been laid to the residences and no one has been around to ask the customers to sign up for service. The village board has taken a hand in the matter and a representative of the Public Service was asked to be present at the village board meeting Monday night. It is understood that action will be taken soon to have the gas installed.

Mrs. Herman Uthe underwent an operation for appendicitis at the St. Francis hospital, Blue Island Friday. She is getting along nicely.

Philip Steffen has been engaged doing painting work at the soldiers camp in the Forest Preserve northwest of town.

A bunco party was held at the St. Michael's church parlors last Wednesday night.

The Royal Neighbors held a bunco party in the home of Mrs. M. Ludwig Thursday night. A good time was enjoyed by all.

The Orland Park players put on their comedy sketch "Oh, Kay" at Worth last Tuesday night and had a fair house.

Rev. and Mrs. Paul Sanders are enjoying a vacation near Madison, Wisconsin.

The Orland Park baseball team played the Yellow Cab team of Chicago Sunday and defeated them 6 to 3. This coming Sunday Orland plays at Blue Island.

Farmers in this section are getting

Dividend Notice

THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS of Public Service Company of Northern Illinois has declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 per share on the Company's 6% Preferred Stock, $1.75 per share on the 7% Preferred Stock, and $2.00 per share on the Common Stock, payable August 1, 1928, to stockholders of record, at the close of business, July 14, 1928.

GEORGE R. JONES, Treasurer

PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY OF NORTHERN ILLINOIS

Serving 6,000 square miles—295 cities, towns and communities—with Gas and Electricity ing ready to harvest oats which are nearly ripe for cutting. The hay crop is about all cut.

FRANKFORT

Miss Lillian Meade of Joliet is visiting here with Mr. and Mrs. Geo Sangmeister.

Mr. and Mrs. Allister and their daughters Ruby and Gladys were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dammann Saturday.

Miss Lorraine Woeltje spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. August Woeltje.

Evelyn and Elvira Hossbach, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Hossbach underwent an operation for removal of tonsils Monday at the Silver Cross hospital, Joliet.

The Industrial Club will hold a chicken dinner picnic for the members and their families at the Club's Park next Sunday, July 29.

The "Just Girls" Club held their weekly meeting at the Frankfort public school Monday, July 16.

The Frankfort 4H Club held their weekly meeting at the Frankfort Public School Wednesday, July 18.

"Removal of Stains" was the subject discussed. The rest of the time was spent in sewing. Lois Baumgartner acted as president in the absence of Marie Scheer, the president.

Mrs. Hattie Holtz and daughter Marie and son LaVerne (Matte) son spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Pfeifer.

The Pfeifer family reunion will be held Sunday, July 29 at Chicago Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Heisner were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Conklin in Chicago Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Heiland and children spent Sunday with Mrs. Bertha Neiland.

The Alumni of the Frankfort Public School held an old and new time dance at the Industrial Club's Park Saturday night. A good sized crowd attended.

The St. Peter's Evangelical church will hold an outing at the Industrial Club Park August 5th. Services will be held in the morning. The afternoon will be spent in a social way.

Some old time friends from Peotone spent Sunday, July 15 with Mr. and Mrs. Levi Doty.

Wm. Folkers and John Staff returned Sunday from a vacation spent in Minnesota.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fuss of Joliet and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stephens spent the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer in Michigan.

Mrs. Milton Heisner and daughter Yovine returned to their home in Denver, Colorado last Wednesday after spending the past four weeks here with Mrs. Heisner's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Stellwagon and other relatives.

Mrs. John Schroeder, Sr., was 90 years old last Sunday.

Mrs. Chas. Jarchow is ill at the home of her daughter Mrs. Homer Smith.

The Ladies Aid of St. Peter's church held their meeting and "coffee" at the church parlors Thursday afternoon and evening.

Quite a number from here attended the "J" picnic held at Dellwood Park last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Clark received a 6 1-2 pound fish that their grandson, Jackie Clark caught down at Bob Resort on the Kankakee river at the summer home of Jackie's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Floyd Clark of Oak Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Vonberg of Matteson spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cheney.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Stellwagon spent Sunday in Monee with relatives.

The small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Oetter is ill with scarlet fever. The two sons who have been ill are improving.

Mrs. Herbert Kohlman will entertain the Amite Sewing Circle at her home next Tuesday evening.

Edward Geuther and daughters, Florence, Lucile and Dorothy expect to move to Joliet next month.

American Swedish Colony

Swedes established a colony in Delaware as early as 1638. They erected a fort on Christian creek and named the country New Sweden. They subsequently established a military post on the island of Tinicum, below Philadelphia.

Credit to Paul Revere

It will always be to the credit of Paul Revere that he didn't stop to make a speech.—Toledo Blade

MARLEY

There will be no services at the Marley church, Sunday, July 29, on account of the annual church vacation.

The Sunday Evening club of the Marley church will repeat their home talent play, as the final performance, Monday evening, July 30, at the Marley church. The play is entitled "Nora, Wake Up". At three act comedy-drama, written by Lillian Mortimer.

This play has been given at New Lenox, Homer, and Orland Park, and was well received. Proceeds of this play will be used for church purposes.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence M. Storm and family who have been visiting relatives in this vicinity, left Tuesday by auto for their home in Great Falls, Montana.

Henry J. Holm of Bartlesville, Okla. visited the forepart of this week at the home of his sister, Mrs. Lewis Tilsy.

Mr. and Mrs. Abel Bliss of Shreveport, La., are expected next week at the home of the latter's mother Mrs. Stanton Lynk.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Lahmann John Handorf, Sr., and Miss Minnie Handorf attended a christening celebration Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Handorf near Lemont, when their infant daughter was christened in the St. Mathew's Lutheran church in Lemont, Sunday morning. The name given the child was Dorothy June. Charles Lahmann was one of her sponsors.

George Hatch of Manteno spent a few days at the Fred Blodgett home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Marshall visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Haley near Kempton, Ill., over Sunday.

The Marley Sunday Evening club presented their play "Nora, Wake Up" at the Orland Park M. E. church Tuesday evening, to a full house. The play was well received and the Marley club extend their heartiest thanks to the Orland Park folks for the kindness, good time and also for the refreshments served to them following the play.

RAYON VOILE DINNER GOWN

FILMY AND FASHIONABLE IS THE RAYON VOILE DINNER GOWN WORN BY LOVELY BETTY MAR. WITH ITS DROOPING HEMLINE AND DAINTY, MODERNISTIC FLORAL DESIGN, SPRING IS TYPIFIED. MISS MAR'S JEWELS, TOO, ARE MODERNISTIC.

Only Once Out of Debt

The United States was out of debt only once in its history according to an answered question in Liberty. That was in 1835 during Andrew Jackson's administration.

Advice to the Old

If old people will make themselves jolly and good company to young people, the young people will listen to some of their advice.—Exchange.

For the Rifleman

The bullet from an ordinary .22-caliber rifle will carry three-quarters of a mile. Don't forget that when you miss your target. And remember also that water and rocks will often deflect the bullet and you are likely to meet it coming back.

Isaac Walton

League to Make Conservation Survey

The Izaak Walton League of America, powerful nationwide conservation and outdoor recreation organization which has been called by Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, "The greatest force in the country for the protection and development of opportunities for outdoor life", is planning to include this community in a comprehensive conservation survey and campaign to remedy outdoor conditions, it was learned here today.

A complete investigation through local sources is announced by the National Headquarters of the League at Chicago to determine what steps should be taken here in the interest of outdoor recreation, propagation of game and fish supply, and other matters relative to constructive conservation.

This investigation will be undertaken as a part of a nationwide conservation survey being made by the League under the direction of Seth E. Gordon, formerly executive officer of the "Pennsylvania system" of game and fish administration, National Officers said.

A constructive organization aggressively active in promoting and providing for more fish and better fishing, more game and better hunting, more recreation areas and more opportunities for outdoor sports, is the basis of the League, which also is aggressively combating pollution of streams, commercialization of recreation areas, and advocating true sportsmanship and sportsmanlike methods in shooting, fishing and camping.

In his endorsement of the activities of the League, Mr. Hoover added, "As our people increase in numbers and in leisure we must have stimulation to health, and above all the moral value that comes from association with nature. Every member of the League is a further soldier in our ranks fighting an organized battle for this vital thing in the nation."

The original warrant for the execution of Charles I is in the library of the house of lords. It was produced by Colonel Harker after the Restoration, and was the evidence upon which those who had signed it were excepted from the indemnity act.

King's Death Warrant

The original warrant for the execution of Charles I is in the library of the house of lords. It was produced by Colonel Harker after the Restoration, and was the evidence upon which those who had signed it were excepted from the indemnity act.

PROBATE NOTICE

Estate of Emma E. Beckstein Deceased.

The undersigned having been appointed Executor of the Last Will and Testament of Emma E. Beckstein late of Mokena in the County of Will and State of Illinois, deceased, hereby give notice that he will appear before the Probate Court of Will County, at the Court House in Joliet, at the September term, on the first Monday in September next (being the 3rd day of said month), at which time all persons having claims against said estate are notified and requested to attend for the purpose of having the same adjusted. All persons indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment to the undersigned.

Dated this 2nd day of July A. D. 1928.

The First National Bank of Joliet By William C. Barber, Trust officer

Executors, as aforesaid.

A. H. Krusemark, Attorney.

Sandalwood

Sandalwood is used in ring and handkerchief boxes, and for the sticks of fans. Its delicate fragrance has made it extremely popular among women who dislike ordinary perfumes.

SCHUSSLER MOTOR SALES

ORLAND PARK, ILLINOIS

Willys-Knight, Whippet

Fine Motor Cars

Complete Line on Display or Demonstration arranged by telephone

Whippet Coach delivered at your door completely equipped $619.00

Willys Knight Coach $1125

New Whippet Six Coach $785

New Cars Low as $100 down payment

Many Used Car Bargains

GOODYEAR SERVICE STATION New Stock, New low prices

GOODYEAR All Weather

BALLOON SIZES

29x4.40	$ 8.90
29x4.75	11.15
31x5.00	12.45
31x5.25	16.80

HIGH PRESSURE

30x3 1-2 cl. cord	7.90
30x3 1-2 Cl. Cord Oversize	8.05
31x4 ss cord	12.70
32x4 ss cord	13.45

GOODYEAR PATHFINDER

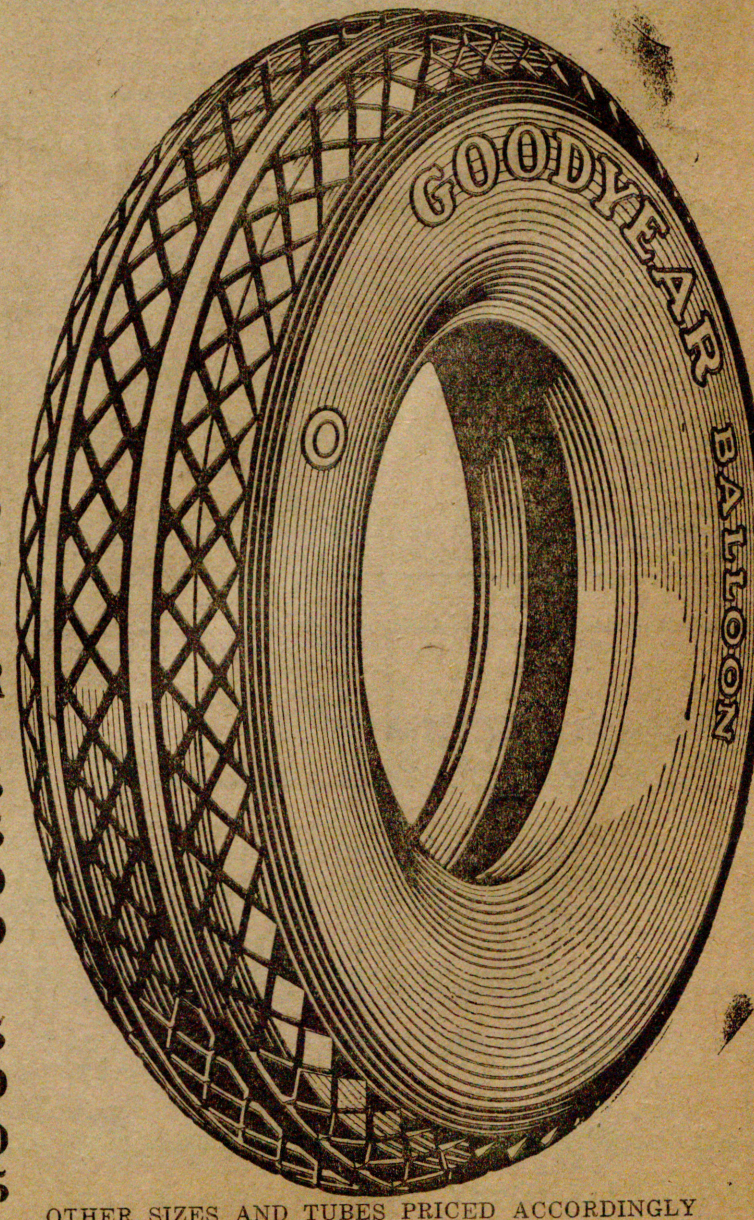

BALLOON SIZES

29x4.40	7.45
29x4.75	9.45
31x5.00	11.20
31x5.25	15.70

HIGH PRESSURE

30x3 1-2 cl. cord	5.85
30x3 1-2 Cl. Cord Oversize	6.50
31x4 ss cord	10.60
32x4 ss cord	11.35

OTHER SIZES AND TUBES PRICED ACCORDINGLY

MOKENA

Chicken thieves tried to break in the chicken house on the Wm. Jones farm the other night, but were frightened away by the dogs. Mr. Jones thinks it was someone who was familiar with the place. An auto with the lights turned out was parked nearby in which the would-be thieves made a hasty retreat.

when the dogs started after them. Miss Grace Hoge of Chicago is a guest in the John Horras home this week. Mrs. Hugo Niethammer who has been visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cooper, returned Tuesday to her home in St. Louis accompanied by her cousins Charles and Bernice Hostert. The Mokena Men's Club dance held Saturday night was a big success, over 200 dance tickets being sold. A dance will be held every Saturday night for the rest of the season. Mrs. George A. Hickey is in Silver Cross hospital, Joliet. She was operated on for appendicitis, Thursday morning. She is doing very nicely. The Mokena Baseball Team played the Heggie Simplex team of Joliet Sunday and defeated them with a score of 10 to 11. This coming Sunday Mokena plays the Tinley Park team on the Schiek diamond at Mokena.

The Don C. Hall families are now conducting a show at Cedar Lake, Indiana. They expect to show extensively thruout Indiana during the summer and fall. Mr. and Mrs. Bert Spiess and son Howard motored to Mooseheart, Ill. Sunday in company with Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Deadmore of Joliet. Quite extensive repairs have been made on the real estate office building of Ona E. McGovney. Chester McGovney of Chicago visited with Mokena relatives over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Nordsell and children have returned from a short vacation trip. The George Koeller family who have been on a four weeks auto vacation trip in Canada and the northwest. They returned Tuesday afternoon.

Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Cramer and daughter Dorothy have been enjoying a vacation in Wisconsin.

A special meeting of the St. John Brotherhood will be held Friday night for the purpose of discussing plans for the Brotherhood picnic to be held in August. The meeting will be held in the church parlors at 8 p. m., standard time. Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Teasdale and Thomas Boyle who have been visiting at the John Balaz home have returned to Houston, Texas.

Robert Allen of Chicago has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Werner the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Krusemark of Akron, Ohio, Attorney A. H. Krusemark of Frankfort, Ill. and Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Whitlark and son, Frederick Jr., spent a few days at Wild Rose Resort, Wisconsin.

Russell and Donald Carroll are visiting with their aunt, Mrs. George Gauthier, in Frankfort.

Harold Cooper has a new Ford coach.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Mattes have purchased a new Studerbacker sedan. Mrs. Florence of Kansas City, Mo., is a guest this week in the home of Mrs. M. Shevlin.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Butler and daughter Mildred motored to Petersburg, Ill., last Friday, returning Sunday evening. Miss Mildred remained for the 10 day session of the Seven-Day Adventist camp meeting which is being held in the Old Salem Chautauqua Park.

Mrs. M. Shevlin celebrated her birthday in her home Sunday. The guests were: Mr. Richter and daughter of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. George Barnes and daughter; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Mattes and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Butler.

MOKENA M. E. CHURCH NOTES
Glen T. Beatty, Pastor
Morning Worship 9:15 A. M.
Church School 10:30 A. M.
Morning service brings one's worship in the best part of the day. We invite you to join with us. Mr. Beatty will preach next Sunday.

The quarterly Conference held last Sunday night by our District Superintendent, Dr. E. C. Lumsden was very enjoyable. Dr. Lumsden brought a very fine sermon on the value of the church in community and individual life and on the use of the Sunday for self-cultivation. The reports showed the church in excellent condition so far as finances and statistics are concerned.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hacker are enjoying a motor vacation thru Canada and other points.

The N. A. Wallace family who have been occupying the Wood residence have moved to Carey, Illinois.

APPROPRIATION ORDINANCE
An ordinance making the annual appropriation bill for the Village of Mokena, in the county of Will and state of Illinois, for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1928, and ending June 30, 1929.

Be it ordained by the President and Board of Trustees of said Village of Mokena:

Section 1. That there be and is hereby appropriated for the necessary expenses and liabilities of the Village of Mokena, in the County of Will and State of Illinois, for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1928, and ending June 30, 1929, the following amounts for the items hereinafter specified, respectively, to wit:

Redemption of Water Works Improvement Bond No. 4	$ 500.00
Redemption of Street Improvement Indebtedness Bond	500.00
Interest on Water Works Improvement Bonds	75.00
Interest on Corporate Indebtedness Bonds	75.00
Interest on Street Improvement Indebtedness Bonds	50.00
Salaries	400.00
Police and Fire Department	300.00
Lighting	1200.00
Building and Repairing Fund	250.00
Streets and Sidewalks	500.00
Oiling of Streets	500.00
Contingent Fund	200.00
Total	$4550.00

Section 2. All unexpended balances of any item or items of any general appropriation made by this Ordinance may be expended in making up any insufficiency in any item or items in the same general appropriation for the same general purpose, or in a like appropriation made by this Ordinance.

Section 3. This Ordinance shall be in force and effect from and after its passage, approval and publication according to law.

Passed this 25th day of July A. D. 1928.

Karl E. Krapp, Village Clerk.
I hereby approve the above and foregoing Ordinance this 25th day of July A. D. 1928.

George J. Hacker
President of the Board of Trustees
Attest:
Karl E. Krapp, Village Clerk.

Cave Supplied Saltpeter
Much of the powder used in the War of 1812 contained saltpeter taken from the Mammoth cave, Kentucky. Wheel tracks of ox-drawn vehicles are still plainly visible in the cave, says the Dearborn Independent.

Toper's Glass
The British museum has acquired a new treasure—a yard of ale. It is an ale glass a yard high, narrow at the base, but larger at the top. Fifty years ago it belonged to a young man who put on exhibitions showing how to drink all the ale in the glass without stopping.

ADVERTISEMENT
Notice is hereby given that sealed proposals will be received in the office of the Town Clerk of Orland Twp., Orland State Bank, Orland Park, Illinois, until August 11, 1928, 2 P. M. standard time, for the purchase of approximately 1000 cubic yards of crushed stone and 500 cubic yards of chips and screenings, to be delivered to the surface of 84th Ave., from 159th St., to 171st St., as per specifications on file in the office of the Highway Commissioner.

Proposals must be on forms provided, without any addition or modification whatsoever. The Highway Commissioner reserves the right to reject any or all proposals, and to waive technicalities.

Full information may be obtained by writing direct to the Town Clerk of Orland Township, Orland, Illinois.

BY ORDER OF
WILLIAM BEAGLEY,
Highway Commissioner.
JOSEPH CREEP
Town Clerk

Will Issue Book On Song Birds

Feathered songsters of Illinois and their less gifted companions will be described in a forthcoming publication of the state department of conservation, Director G. H. Radebaugh announced today.

Designed as a companion volume to "Trees of Illinois", published recently by the department, the "bird book" was written by Orpheus M. Schantz, Berwyn, Ill., president of the Illinois Audubon Society. Mr. Schantz was recommended to the director by Robert Ridgway of Olney, ranked among America's foremost ornithologists.

"Trees of Illinois" was prepared by R. B. Miller, chief state forester, as a handbook for identification of all native species of trees. So popular was the book that 20,000 copies have been distributed, and a third edition will be off the press shortly.

Encouraged by this success, and believing that a companion book on birds would have a still larger popular appeal, the bird book project was started, said Mr. Radebaugh.

Mr. Schantz in his book has grouped the different birds according to their families as scientifically set forth in recognized works of ornithology. Supplementing the scientific names will be the common names and names locally used, with a short description of the markings of the birds sufficient for identification. A notation will show whether it is a summer or winter resident or a transient.

Because there are many more birds than trees in the state, it will not be possible to elaborate on each bird, or to say a great deal about each family, Mr. Schantz said. Sufficient data will be given, so that the interested can find more detailed description in scientific works. Only a limited number of pictures will be included, the number being limited by the size of the book.

In his introduction, Mr. Schantz emphasizes the very favorable geographic location of Illinois for bird life, because of the waterways, especially the Mississippi, which, with its tributaries, forms what possibly is "the greatest migration highway for birds on the North American continent."

Commenting upon the publication Mr. Radebaugh said today that he saw no greater service that the department could do than foster an interest in the wild life of the state. "We can do no better or more important work," he said, "than to create among young and old a greater interest in trees, forests, birds and wild life generally, and one way to do this is through the publication of popular books reaching many thousands, rather than technical bulletins reaching only a few hundred people."

At Least, She Things So.
The trouble is, if he has discretion enough not to write her letters that can be used in court, he doesn't love her enough to be convincing.—Exchange.

Report Shows Rotten Court Conditions

Only the other day in Chicago a group of judges, sitting in judgment on other judges charged with jockeying and bargaining with criminals with the result that they permitted defeat of the law, found the accused judges not guilty.

But the investigation which brought the charges against the judges has brought to public gaze an amazing situation in the courts of Illinois. The situation is not new. The facts were known before. The action merely brings them violently to our notice.

Some months ago a committee was appointed from the faculty of three of Illinois' greatest universities to make a study on crime in Illinois, its punishment and the workings of the pardon and parole system. The men were named at the request of Hinton G. Clabaugh, chairman of the pardon and parole board.

This committee was composed of Andrew A. Bruce, professor of law, Northwestern University; Ernest W. Burgess, professor of sociology, University of Chicago; Albert J. Harno, dean of the College of Law, University of Illinois and John Landes, associate.

In that report we find the statement, in the cold, unemotional writing of the investigating committee that they found that the courts of Cook county had released 4,986 offenders in one year in violation of the law. That means illegally, the courts going beyond their rights in freeing them.

The following is quoted from the report:

"The Probation Act provides, before granting any request for admission to probation, the court shall require the probation officer to investigate accurately and promptly the case of the defendant making such request."

Notwithstanding, it was found that this feature is being commonly disregarded by the courts. This is true of Cook county particularly where, according to the report of the chief probation officer, during the course of one year, 4,986 offenders were admitted to probation without preliminary investigation, and but 476 were investigated.

Probation is not parole. The public, very often, fails to distinguish between the two. Probation is where a person, found guilty of a crime, is released without punishment by the court. Usually it is a release pending good behavior.

The parole board has nothing to do with probation. The man released on probation never gets to the board. When a prisoner is paroled it means that time has been served that a certain amount of punishment has been meted out to him.

Now in Illinois there are certain crimes for which probation cannot be given - legally. But it is given, regularly, according to this report. How?

By judges who freely bargain with criminals, if the report of these university professors is true. The following is quoted from the report.

"The statute bars from probation those offenders who have committed murder, manslaughter, rape, kidnapping, willful and corrupt perjury or subornation of perjury, arson, larceny and embezzlement, where the amount taken or converted exceeds $200 in value, incest, burglary of an inhabited dwelling house, conspiracy and acts made an offense under the election laws."

"The committee found that instances were not uncommon in which the courts had granted probation in offenses excepted by the statute. It found, also, that the records frequently showed that the courts had accepted pleas of guilty to lesser offenses when the crimes charged were among those offenses excepted by the statute."

"The committee cannot know what prompted the courts in accepting lesser pleas. The inference is strong, however, that these pleas were taken to bring the offenders within the benefits of the probation act."

THIS KNOCKED 'EM COLD
IN PARIS

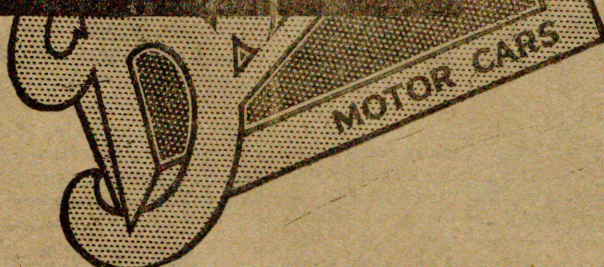

WHEN M. FAULEY, FAMOUS FRENCH COMEDIAN, AND HIS PARTNER, MILE MAUD LOTY, APPEARED AT A FANCY DRESS BALL IN PARIS, GARBED AS SHOWN IN THE PICTURE, THAT IS IN COSTUMES FEATURING GLOVES, CAPS, AND TRIMMINGS, IN ALPINE, FARKING WATER SNAKE, THEY STOPPED THE SHOW.

Look to the Leader for Leadership

On Display
Saturday
July 28

The
SILVER ANNIVERSARY BUICK

A wonderful new car
by Buick

WM. SEGGEBRUCH,
CHICAGO HEIGHTS, ILLINOIS

WEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT...BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

WISCONSIN DAIRY Cows For Sale

T. B. Tested SOLD ON 60
DAYS RETEST
E. P. KRAPP J. W. MUFF
TEL. MOKENA 51 TEL. MATTESON 798-Y4

The White Store

401 407 CASS STREET, JOLIET

10 Lbs. Pure cane
Sugar 49c

With Purchase of $3.50 or over in the Grocery Department
Flour Best Produced 49
24 Pound Sack

With Purchase of $3.50 or over in the Grocery Department

Illinois peach crop prospects are forecast at 2,300 carlots by the mid-month fruit bulletin, issued jointly by the division of standardization and markets, Illinois department of agriculture and the United States and Illinois co-operative crop reporting service. Other details in the current issue give figures on national peach production and comparisons with yields of former years. The apple crop of Illinois is estimated at 4,954,000 bushels. That is half a million over 1927. The commercial movement will approximate 1,032,000 barrels from Illinois orchards, against 804,000 last year. Conditions as observed by fruit inspection forces of the Illinois department of agriculture in the various fruit production counties are mentioned in the bulletin. It is mailed free to growers who request it of the Illinois department of agriculture at Springfield.

A force of trained men, coached by federal authorities engaged in European corn borer control work, has commenced a thorough inspection of cornfields all along the eastern border of the state of Illinois. The forces that will scout the danger zone in search of insects are made up of 20 representatives of the division of plant industry, Illinois department of agriculture and as many from the United States Department of Agriculture. In addition, the state maintains a staff of emergency men who will investigate any suspicious insect pests reported, and for determination of the identity of the insects found, they will confer with federal experts experienced in this service. Scouting will continue throughout the summer season, and Illinois will put forth every possible effort to protect the corn belt against invasion by this pest, according to the plans of state officials co-operating with the federal forces.

Automobile license plates to be used in Illinois in 1929 will be dark green background with white numerals and border, according to an announcement made by Secretary of State Louis L. Emmerson. Mr. Emmerson announced also that the contract for this type of license plates has been awarded to the W. F. Robertson Steel and Iron company of Springfield, Ohio, at a figure considerably less than was paid last year when plates were secured for $8.0864 a pair.

The state division of highways has let the contract for paving on Route 96, section 123 in Hancock county to Cameron-Joyce & Co., Keokuk, Iowa. The price was $145,594.65. A contract has also been let to this same company for pavement on Route 49, section 143, Cook county, for $185,280.92.

A 240-acre farm brought a sale price of $125,500 recently in LaSalle County Circuit court. The farm, part of the Ebin J. Ward estate, was purchased for that amount by the state for a canal, 200 feet wide, from the Marseilles dam to the locks on the Illinois river. The canal will cost $1,500,000 and, in addition, the state must pay the Marseilles Hydraulic company $88,000 for the last eight years in a nine-year water-right lease held by that company. W. F. Mulvihill, superintendent of the waterways division of the state department of purchases and construction, testified in Circuit court that he considered the farm sale price to be reasonable and fair.

County boards of supervisors that plan to pass resolutions barring the purchase of coal from foreign fields, with the intent of boosting the sale of Illinois mined coal, will be violating public policy, Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom has ruled. His opinion was given to Russell O. Hanson, state's attorney of LaSalle county. Hanson advised the attorney general that his county board had adopted a resolution to the effect that all coal purchased by the county should be mined inside the county, if the coal could be secured, and if not, the coal bought by the county should be purchased from Illinois mines. In no event, the resolution said, should coal be purchased from a mine outside the state.

Bids for the sale of a large number of automobiles and trucks, many of ancient make, together with other material classed as junk were received a few days ago by the state department of public works and buildings. The bids were submitted from dealers in various parts of the state and the successful bidder will be announced soon. The junk which the state desires to dispose of is on the state fair grounds and is to be removed before the opening of the annual exposition.

Calhoun county will harvest another half million barrels of apples this year, and southern Illinois will produce its second largest peach crop, Joseph Cummings, chief fruit inspector of the division of standardization and markets, state department of agriculture, made this announcement. Harvesting of Illinois apples has already started, he said, with the shipment of the first carloads of early apples from southern Illinois counties of Union and Johnson. First carloads of Dutchess apples have also started from Johnson county.

Practically every county in the state will be represented at the Illinois State Fair Boys' school, to be held in connection with the annual exposition August 18-25. Director of Agriculture Stillman J. Stanard, pointing out the advantages the school offers, urges ambitious lads between fifteen and twenty-five to enroll for the instruction it offers. Lectures form only a portion of the week's short course in farming. The boys view the exhibits under able guidance. An assistant superintendent from each congressional district is in charge of youths from his district. Every county superintendent of schools within the state, with the county farmers' institute president and the chairman of the board of supervisors, can examine and certify for the enrollment, applicants for this school. The maximum enrollment is 322. Counties are apportioned from 2 to 15 students, based on population. The state fair management, and its board of advisors are allotted 40. Boys applying early have better opportunities to enroll.

Dr. E. L. Hill, managing officer of the Jacksonville state hospital, died at his quarters in that institution a few days ago. Doctor Hill had been in ill health for a long time but had overcome many of his ailments, when it became necessary to submit to an operation. Doctor Hill was made head of the hospital in 1915 by Governor Dunne.

Every dog must have his day—three days to be exact—according to plans for the renewal of the dog show at the state fair. The Illinois State Kennel club, through its secretary-treasurer, Albert J. Baker, Springfield, has made arrangements with state officials for a bench show of greater proportions than the one conducted at the 1927 exposition. Officials confidently expect between five and six hundred entries and will make their plans accordingly. The old frame structure, erected as a temporary substitute for the old dome building, has been removed. In its stead a big canvas pavilion is to be set up to house the dog show.

Feathered songsters of Illinois and their less gifted companions will be described in a forthcoming publication of the state department of conservation. Designed as a companion volume to "Trees of Illinois," published recently by the department, the "bird book" was written by Orpheus M. Schantz, Berwyn, Ill., president of the Illinois Audubon society. Mr. Schantz was recommended to the director by Robert Ridgway of Olney, ranked among America's foremost ornithologists. "Trees of Illinois" was prepared by R. B. Miller, chief state forester, as a handbook for identifications of all native species of trees. So popular was the book that 20,000 copies have been distributed, and a third edition will be off the press shortly.

Members of the Governor's Guard Veteran corps, honorary military organization established in 1874 assembled recently to attend the funeral of Maj. George T. Fisher, last active charter member of the organization, who died a few days ago. Major Fisher had been president of the Governor's Guard Veteran corps from 1921 until his death and had always been prominent in the activities of the organization.

The Illinois Agricultural association has invited the vice-presidential candidates of the Republican and Democratic parties to attend the Illinois State Fair at Springfield and discuss the national agricultural problem. The association sent telegrams to Senator Charles Curtis, Republican candidate, and Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Democratic candidate, asking them to attend the meeting August 24.

Illinois has $6,500,000 in its strong box which belongs to the 102 counties of the state, but payment has been halted and it may be a year or more before the money can be released.

The money was collected under the illegal 2-cent gasoline law, and the bill providing for its refund to counties became operative a few days ago, but the cash fund in the state treasury has not been reduced. This fund has been tied up by injunction proceedings filed by distributing companies in the state and federal courts and until they are disposed of State Treasurer Garrett D. Kinney, named as defendant in the legal battle, will not send out vouchers.

Attorney General Carlstrom declares that counties may lawfully pass the increased relief of the blind act passed by the legislature in 1927.

Decatur officials have requested the state department of conservation to establish a fish hatchery in that city. The request was made by State Representative W. C. Cheynoweth, who has invited Director Gus Radebaugh to speak before civic clubs of Decatur on the work done by his department.

The following contracts have been awarded by the state division of highways:

Route 89, section 120E, Putnam county, bridge; Snyder and Johnson, Humboldt, Iowa, $36,566.54

Route 107, section 104C Pike county, bridge; Illinois Steel Bridge company, Jacksonville, $10,355.16.

Route 107, section 104B, Pike county, bridge; Watt Construction company, Winchester, $45,000.

Route 101, section 120A, Schuyler county, grading; Gaines Brothers, Fairland, Okla., $117,857.30.

LEADING RADIO PROGRAMS

(Time given is Eastern Standard; subtract one hour for Central and two hours for Mountain time.)

N. B. C. RED NETWORK

Sunday, July 29.

1:00 p. m. Summer Radio Church.
2:00 p. m. Sixty Musical Minutes.
5:00 p. m. Stetson Parade.
6:30 p. m. Capitol Theater.
8:15 p. m. Kent Hour.

N. B. C. BLUE NETWORK

3:00 p. m. The Friendly Hour.
5:30 p. m. Cook's Radio Tour.
6:30 p. m. Anglo Persians.
7:15 p. m. Collier's Hour.
10:00 p. m. Slumber Music.

N. B. C. RED NETWORK

Monday, July 30.

7:00 p. m. O' Cedar Shining Hour.
7:30 p. m. A and P Gypsies.
8:30 p. m. General Motors Party.
9:30 p. m. Fisk Boys.

N. B. C. BLUE NETWORK

5:05 p. m. Bossert Orchestra.
6:30 p. m. Roxy's Gang.
8:00 p. m. Riverside Hour.
10:00 p. m. Slumber Music.

N. B. C. RED NETWORK

Tuesday, July 31.

9:00 p. m. Voters' Service.
6:30 p. m. Soconyland Sketches.
7:30 p. m. Seiberling Singers.
8:00 p. m. Eveready Hour.
9:00 p. m. Cliequot Club Eskimos.

N. B. C. BLUE NETWORK

5:05 p. m. Happiness Restaurant Orch.
6:30 p. m. Constitutional High Spots.
7:00 p. m. Stromberg Carlson Hour.
7:30 p. m. Lewishin Stadium Concerts.
10:00 p. m. Slumber Music.

N. B. C. RED NETWORK

Wednesday, August 1.

8:00 p. m. Ipaca Troubadours.
8:30 p. m. Goodrich Silvertown Orch.
9:30 p. m. National Grand Opera.

N. B. C. BLUE NETWORK

6:00 p. m. Geo. Olsen & His Music.
7:30 p. m. Sylvania Foresters.
8:00 p. m. Philco Hour.

N. B. C. RED NETWORK

Thursday, August 2.

6:30 p. m. Coward Comfort Hour.
7:30 p. m. Hoover Sentinels.
9:00 p. m. Halsey Stuart Hour.

N. B. C. BLUE NETWORK

8:00 p. m. Maxwell House Hour.
9:30 p. m. The Flit Soldiers.
10:00 p. m. Michelin Hour.

N. B. C. RED NETWORK

Friday, August 3.

6:00 p. m. The Wonder Hour.
7:00 p. m. C'ities Service Hour.
8:00 p. m. Bourjois, Inc.
8:30 p. m. La France Orchestra.

N. B. C. BLUE NETWORK

6:30 p. m. Dixies Circus.
7:00 p. m. Gold Spot Pals.
7:30 p. m. White Rock Concert.
10:00 p. m. Slumber Music.

N. B. C. RED NETWORK

Saturday, August 4.

5:00 p. m. Waldorf Astoria Music.
7:30 p. m. Lewishin Stadium Concerts.

N. B. C. BLUE NETWORK

2:30 p. m. R. C. A. Demonstration Hour.
10:00 p. m. Slumber Music.

The following is a list of stations carrying the above programs:

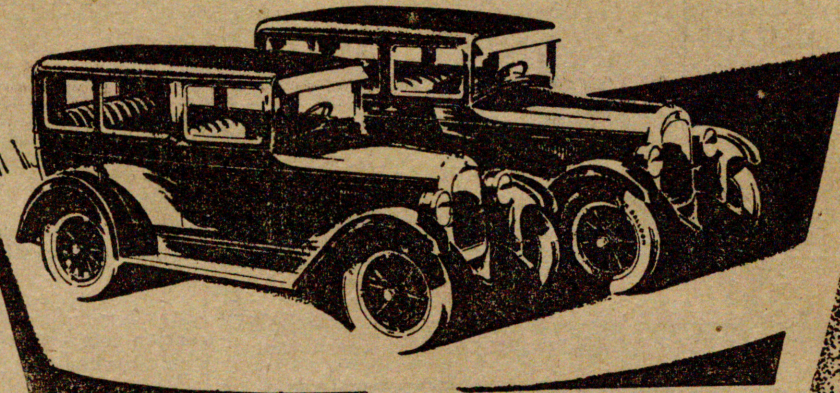

National Broadcasting company Red Network; WEA, New York; WEEL, Boston; WTIC, Hartford; WJAR, Providence; WTAG, Worcester; WCHS, Portland, Me.; WLIT and WFI, Philadelphia; WRC, Washington; WGY, Schenectady; WGR, Buffalo; WCAE, Pittsburgh; WTAM and WEAR, Cleveland; WWJ, Detroit; WSAI, Cincinnati; WGN and WLBI, Chicago; KSD, St. Louis; WOC, Davenport; WHO, Des Moines; WOW, Omaha; WDAF, Kansas City; WCCO-WRHM, Minneapolis-St. Paul; WTMJ, Milwaukee; KOA, Denver; WHAS, Louisville; WSM, Nashville; WMC, Memphis; WSB, Atlanta; WBT, Charlotte; KVOO, Tulsa; WFAA, Dallas; KPRC, Houston; WOAI, San Antonio; WBAP, Ft. Worth; WJAX, Jacksonville.

National Broadcasting company Blue Network; WJZ, New York; WBZA, Boston; WBZ, Springfield; WBAL, Baltimore; WHAM, Rochester; KDKA, Pittsburgh; WJR, Detroit; WLW, Cincinnati; KYW and WEBB, Chicago; KWK, St. Louis; WREN, Kansas City; WCCO-WRHM, Minneapolis-St. Paul; WTMJ, Milwaukee; KOA, Denver; WHAS, Louisville; WSAI, Nashville; WMC, Memphis; WSB, Atlanta; WBT, Charlotte; KVOO, Tulsa; WFAA, Dallas; KPRC, Houston; WOAI, San Antonio; WBAP, Ft. Worth; WJAX, Jacksonville.

Austria Interested in Radio Austria now claims to be the most progressive country in the broadcast field, so far as percentage of registered listeners is concerned, 300,000 of its 6,500,000 population being registered radio listeners. Radio manufacturing is also developing rapidly.

LOWEST PRICED SEDANS on the market

2,000,000 WILLYS-OVERLAND CARS AND GOING STRONG!

with quality, beauty and style dominating

In definite dollar-for-dollar value there are no 4-door enclosed cars on the market comparable to the Whippet Four and Whippet Six Sedans.

The perfected Whippet Four offers such desirable features as full force-feed lubrication, silent timing chain, extra leg room and powerful 4-wheel brakes. The new Whippet Six, in addition to these, provides a 7-bearing crankshaft, invulnerable pistons and many other advantages.

Such notable values as these Sedans are possible only because of the skill and experience gained in the production of more than 2,000,000 motor cars.

WHIPPET FOUR SEDAN $610

WHIPPET SIX SEDAN $770
WORLD'S LOWEST PRICED SIX DOOR SEDAN

FOURS Whippet SIXES

Four-cylinder Touring $455; Roadster (2-pass.) $485; Roadster (with rumble seat) $525; Coach $535; Coupe $535; Cabriolet Coupe (with collapsible top) $595. Whippet Six Touring $615; Roadster $685; Coupe $695, Coach $695. All prices f. o. b. Toledo, Ohio, and specifications subject to change without notice. Willys-Overland, Inc., Toledo, Ohio.

WILLYS-OVERLAND, Inc.
TOLEDO, OHIO

Alaska Salmon Puts Gold in Second Place

Nobody except the Alaskan, perhaps, considers the salmon a goldfish. To him the flash of its dripping flanks as it leaps in the sun is a more significant glitter than that of genuine gold. Salmon runs in Alaska are of greater value than gold mines.

It was gold that made modern Alaska, beginning with the famous Klondike rush of 1896. Millions of dollars' worth of the yellow metal was mined. The peak year was 1916, when mineral production totaled $48,000,000. Ten years later salmon exports for 1926 were valued at $49,000,000, while mineral production had dropped to $17,658,000. The golden harvest now is gathered not from the earth but from the waters of the earth. Salmon production is not always so phenomenal. A normal year, as in 1927, is only $27,000,000. Even so, the salmon is a more valuable asset to Alaska than the gold mine. Not so beautiful as the goldfish, perhaps, but more nearly deserving of the title. As for beauty, what fish can surpass the magnificent spectacle of a salmon leaping the merciless surge of a waterfall?—Dayton News.

Forcibly Struck

"What struck you on your first visit to Chicago?"
"A motor lorry."

HUSBAND DISTRIBUTES BOOKLETS

Wife Tries Compound

Every year the Pinkham Medicine Company distributes about 30,000,000 booklets from house to house.

Mr. Ted Hinzman does this work in Lodi, California. His wife writes: "It was in these little booklets I read about so many women being helped by the medicine. I thought I would give it a trial and I can truly say that it has done me good. My neighbors and friends ask me what I am doing to make me look so much better. I tell them that I am taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

SWISSCO HAIR TREATMENT
Restores Color to Faded Hair. Removes Dandruff. Stops Falling Hair. Makes Hair Grow. 60c and $1.20. At druggists or direct. Swissco Hair Treatment Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Carrier Pigeons Not Far Behind Airplane

Three carrier pigeons recently wheeled into the air above Hammondsport, N. Y., at 9:01 in the morning, circled overhead, and headed for Auburn, N. Y., 50 miles away. At 9:49 a. m., the first of the birds arrived, making the trip at nearly a mile a minute and losing by only three minutes a race with an airplane.

Stop watches, motor cars and airplanes have only recently solved one of nature's greatest mysteries—how fast a bird can fly. Through modern observations made from the swiftest vehicles on earth we know now that the bullet-like flight of swifts and swallows, and of them alone, can reach speeds of fifty to two hundred miles an hour—a mark to put all but the speediest airplanes to shame. Only four racing motor cars on earth have gone faster.—Popular Science Monthly.

Discovered Ancient City

Robert J. Casey, American author, returned recently from a trip to Siam, where he said he found the ruins of a great city and believes he is the first white man ever to gaze on the ruins that at one time probably housed a million Khmers from the Fifth to the Eleventh centuries.

Natives feared to penetrate the dense jungle surrounding the city, he related. Unaccompanied, he plunged through bamboo thickets for nearly thirty miles and found the city surrounded by a slimy moat filled with crocodiles. He stated that French archaeologists had discovered the remnants of cities in which 30,000,000 Khmers lived at one time, but could find no record in France of the city he stumbled upon.

Look to Salmon Supply

One fish for every person in the United States was liberated from salmon hatcheries in Washington state during the year ended May 31. A total of 123,625,000 salmon were turned into ocean tributaries in that time. Since 1900 2,875,000,000 salmon eggs have been hatched by the state so that its third industry, employing 100,000 men and returning $75,000,000 annually, might survive. More than 11,000,000 salmon are caught each year in Washington waters.

New Fire Extinguisher

Two Ohio chemists were as much mystified as anybody recently when they discovered that solutions containing salts of alkali metals, such as potassium, can put out a fire three times as rapidly as standard soda acid types of extinguishers. Their apparatus puts out a blaze in 12 seconds. The best previous record was from 35 to 45 seconds.—Popular Science Monthly.

"Heaven and Hel"

The most interesting of the Writings of Emanuel Swedenborg

The renowned theologian, philosopher and scientist, 623 pages book treating of the Life after Death, sent without further cost or obligation on receipt of

Write for complete list of publications
SWEDENBORG FOUNDATION, Inc.
Room 1272 18 East 41st St., New York

Kill All Flies!

THAT SPREAD REASE
Pinned anywhere, DAISY FLY KILLER attracts and kills all flies. Neat, clean, ornamental, and cheap, it's all you need. No more annoying flies! It's the only fly killer that won't harm anything else.
DAISY FLY KILLER
from 7c
HAROLD SOMERS BOOKS, N. Y.

Send for Our List of Used Plows, lathes, drill presses and miscellaneous machines, suitable for machine shops, garages, farms, etc. BOX 326, Grand Haven, Michigan.

MEN, WOMEN—Sell guarantee Fruit and Shade Trees, Roses, Shrubbery, etc. Weekly pay. No investment, no outfit. Quaker Hill Nurseries, Newark, New York.

FOR SALE—No. 1 Coon Dog, years old. Fox, Stock and Rabbit broke. Pair of long eared pups, breeding good. Ill ship on trial. NOBLE CROSS, MAYFIELD, KY.

"J. J. Haberkorn Wartoff" R. U. S. Pat. Off. The guaranteed wart remover. No danger. No pain. No scars. Ask for it at any drug store or send $1 for package to L. J. Haberkorn, Chatsworth, Ill.

Bargains Farm Property. Fruit Sites, catalogue free, mild climate. Rich. H. Well watered. Good schools and churches. Old Belt Realty Co., Cham. of Com. Cse City, Va.

FOR SALE—FUR FARM FES. LAKE lots, farms, private lake, mber lands. Onida Co., Wis. FITZGERALD, 69 E. New York Ave., Oshkosh, Wis.

FREE! FREE! FREE! New Book on Lands, Farm Lake, River and Bay. 10c and 25c. Write for prices. A. W. BLOM, Menominee, Mich.

PRECKLE OINMENT

For real satisfaction. It does more. 1c and 6c. Kremen's Face Cream makes you beautiful. 1c. 25c. FREE BOOKLET. Ask dealer or write Dr. C. H. Berry Co., 2975 Megan Ave., Chicago

WORLD CRUIS $1000

Now s "Caledonia" sails Jan. 16, 17, and up Havana, Panama, Los Angeles, Honolulu, Japan, Hong Kong, Manila, Yokohama, (Siam), Java, Sumatra, Ceylon, India, Egypt, Naples, Monaco, Havre (Paris); Euro stop-over in spring. Hotels, drives, guides, etc., included.

MEDITERRANEAN CRUISE
as "Transylvania" Jan. 30, days, $600 up
Frank C. Clark, Tim Bldg., N. Y.

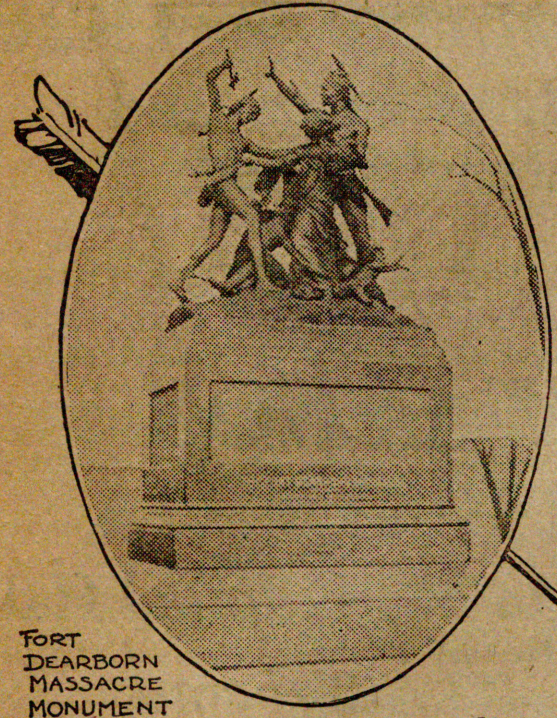

RICH MAN'S CORN REVESTER
Poor man's price. Only $25.00 bundle tying attachment, sold in every state. Catalog showing picture of harvester. Progress, Salina, Kansas

PARER'S HAIR ALSAM
Removes Dandruff, Stops Hair Falling. Beauty to Grand Faded Hair. 60c and $1.20. Druggists. N. Y.

FLORESTON SHAMPOO—For use in connection with Parer's Hair Cream. Makes the hair soft and fluffy. 50 cents a bottle or at druggists. Hilexco Chemical Works, Chicago, N. Y.

W. N. U., CHICAGO, O. 30-1928.

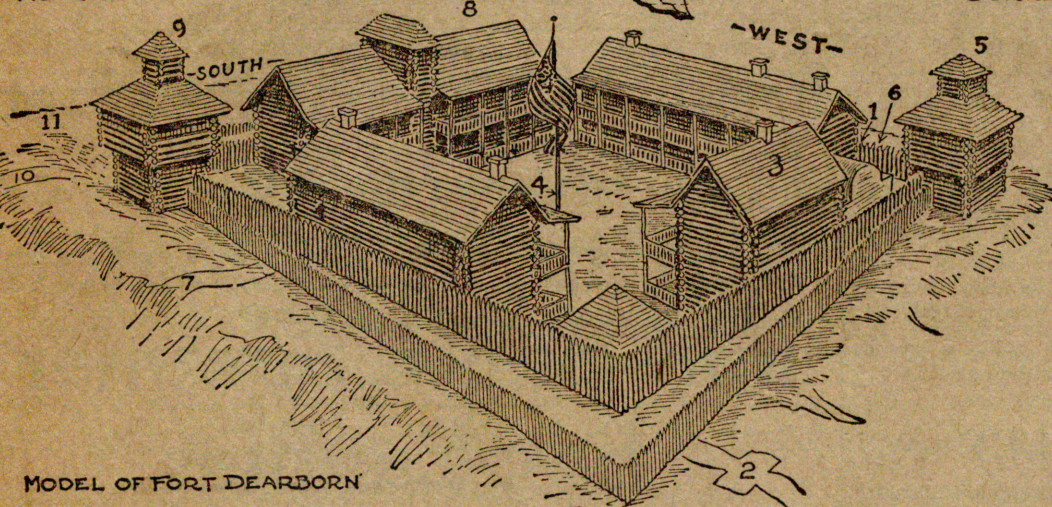

Two Historic Massacres

FORT DEARBORN MASSACRE MONUMENT

SURRENDER OF FORT WILLIAM HENRY

MODEL OF FORT DEARBORN

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

THE coming of August—"August, America's Month of Battles," it has been called because so many dramatic and important engagements in our history have been fought during that month—brings the anniversaries of two famous massacres which offer an interesting study in "historic parallels." In both cases the commander of a fort, putting his faith in the word of an enemy, led out from the shelter of its log walls his little garrison of men, women and children, who were set upon by a horde of savages, who killed until the waters in the lake, on whose shores the fort stood, figuratively ran red. In both cases the commander realized fully the danger into which he was leading his people and in both cases he was compelled to evacuate by orders from his superior officer. And upon the heads of these "superior" officers—who were certainly incompetent or stupid, if not actually cowardly—the blood of the unfortunate victims whom they sent to their deaths must rest until history finds some new facts to absolve their guilt. The two massacres were those which took place at Fort William Henry on the shores of Lake George in New York on August 9, 1757, and at Fort Dearborn on the shores of Lake Michigan in Illinois on August 15, 1812.

Fort William Henry was built in 1755 by Sir William Johnson, the gallant Irish-American baronet, who won the powerful Iroquois confederacy of Indians to the side of England in her struggle with France for possession of North America. It was the base of his operations during the futile campaign of 1755 against the French, was abandoned when winter came, repaired again the next spring and was again the base for General Winslow's equally futile campaign against the French at Crown Point in 1758. When the campaign of 1757 opened, Fort William Henry, which had again been repaired and strengthened, was the most advanced British post in the direction of Canada and was the one which would bear the brunt of the attack by an army of 8,000 men which the able French general, Marquis de Montcalm, was preparing to launch against it. In the face of this threat, the earl of Loudon, British commander in chief, had weakened the possibility of resisting Montcalm's attack by sending a large part of the British and Colonial forces on a useless and doomed-to-failure expedition against Louisbourg in Nova Scotia.

Fort William Henry was held by Lieutenant Colonel Monro with a force of 2,140 men. Eighteen miles away his superior officer, Gen. Daniel Webb, held Fort Edward with an army of 6,000, but, although Webb knew in advance of Montcalm's plans, he made no attempt to summon the colonial militia to his aid and even when he learned from his scouts that the French general was concentrating his forces at Ticonderoga, he made no attempt to concentrate his own forces at either William Henry or at Edward.

Montcalm appeared before Fort William Henry on August 4 and after the usual formal demand for its surrender, which was refused, opened fire upon it with his battery of 12 and 18-pounders. For five days Monro held out gallantly against the superior forces and the superior artillery of the enemy, hoping all the time that Webb would "march to the sound of the guns." But no help came. The fort was being pounded to pieces, his garrison was weakened by sickness as well as by death from the Frenchman's artillery, and half of his cannon had been rendered useless. On the morning of August 9 Montcalm planted his heaviest guns within such close range that further resistance would have been futile. So Monro was forced to surrender with the honors of war.

Under the terms of the capitulation the garrison of Fort William Henry was to march out, unarmed but retaining their personal belongings, and to be escorted to Fort Edward, after giving their promise not to serve in the British army again for eighteen months. As a token of their brave defense, the chivalrous Frenchman allowed them to take along one piece of artillery, a six-pounder. Unfortunately they left in the fort a supply of liquor and the Indians, who swarmed into the fort as the garrison left it, found this "firewater." Their thirst for blood aroused by the stubborn defense of the garrison during the siege and maddened by the liquor, the Indians gathered in a threatening mass along the column of marching English.

One of the most vivid descriptions of what then took place is found in a classic in American literature, J. Fenimore Cooper's "The Last of the Mohicans." Although that book is fiction, there is probably an element of truth in the dramatic scene in which he depicts an Indian attempting to steal a shawl from one of the women, who wrapped her baby in it, whereupon the savage seized the child, dashed its head against a rock and then tomahawked the mother. From that point Cooper continues:

At that dangerous moment, Magua placed his hands to his mouth, and raised the fatal and appalling whoop. The scattered Indians started at the well-known cry, as couriers bound at the signal to quit the goal; and directly there arose such a yell along the plain, and through the arches of the woods as seldom burst from human lips before. They who heard it, listened with curdling horror at the heart, little inferior to that dread which may be expected to attend the blasts of the final summons.

More than two thousand raving savages broke from the forest at the signal, and threw themselves across the fatal plain with instinctive alacrity. We shall not dwell on the revolting horrors that succeeded. Death was everywhere, and in his most terrific and disgusting aspects. Resistance only served to inflame the murderers, who inflicted their furious blows long after their victims were beyond the power of their resentment. The flow of blood might be likened to the outbreak of a torrent, and as the natives became heated and maddened by the sight, many among them even knelt to the earth and drank freely, exultingly, hellishly of the crimson tide.

The trained bodies of troops threw themselves quickly into solid masses, endeavoring to awe their assailants by the imposing appearance of a military front. The experiment in some measure succeeded, though far too many suffered their unloading muskets to be torn from their hands, in the vain hope of appeasing the savages.

To the credit of the French commander it must be said that he did all in his power to restrain the Indians. At the risk of their lives, he and members of his staff threw themselves between the savages and their victims and he immediately summoned his French regulars who stopped the massacre. But before that could be accomplished more than fifty of the English, including some of the wounded men who lay in a temporary hospital, were killed and scalped, and some two hundred were carried away into captivity by the Indians who took them to Montreal to be ransomed. Not all of the two hundred survived, however, for, according to one authority, some perished at the stake and as a final touch to the horrors of the Fort William Henry massacre, one band, called the Cold County Cannibals, roasted some of their prisoners and ate them. So the exact loss of the English on that fateful day will never be exactly known, although it is certain that Cooper's statement that "between 500 and 1,500 fell in this unhappy affair" is an exaggeration, as is often the case with the creator of "Leatherstocking." Aside from the fact that the Fort William Henry massacre was one of the most tragic events in American history, it was also a significant one. For France's failure to control her savage allies, as illustrated by this instance, nerved the colonists to the resolution to resist to the utmost an enemy which used such allies and in the long run that resolution contributed to the downfall of the French power on this continent.

Fort Dearborn, whose log walls were to be the genesis of the second largest city in the United States and the metropolis of mid-America, was built in 1803 by Capt. John Whistler of the United States regular army, in line with the government's policy of establishing posts on the new western frontier to protect the wave of settlement which was sure to follow the Louisiana Purchase. In 1810 Capt. Nathan Heald took command of the post and within a short time began hearing alarming reports of the activities of the great Shawnee chief, Tecumseh, who was dreaming the old dream of Pontiac of uniting all the Indian tribes to wipe out the white invaders of their lands.

In June, 1812, the United States went to war with Great Britain and Tecumseh, temporarily felled by the defeat of his boasting brother, the Prophet, at Tippecanoe, cast his lot with the British, which meant savage warfare on the northwestern frontier. On July 29 Gen. William Hull, commander of the U. S. fort at Detroit and Heald's superior officer, sent an order to Heald to evacuate the post, destroy all surplus arms and ammunition, but to give the goods in the United States factory there to the friendly Indians around the post and proceed at once to Fort Wayne, Ind. It was this Hull, he it remembered, whose blundering and general incompetence was so soon to lead to the surrender of Detroit to the British General Brock without firing a shot in its defense.

Heald's force at the time the order from Hull was received on August 8 consisted of 54 regulars and 12 militia. Various hostile acts committed by Indians around the post during the preceding months indicated that the abandonment of the fort and the march to Fort Wayne would be a dangerous undertaking, whereas if he remained, he could no doubt count upon help from militia, which the governors of Illinois and Indiana would raise, should the Indians attack. But Hull's orders were positive and left nothing to Heald's discretion. Being a soldier, he could do nothing but obey. So preparations were made for the evacuation of the fort on August 15. On the previous day the goods in the factory were distributed among the Indians with the understanding that in return for these goods they were to protect the garrison on its retreat. According to orders Heald had destroyed the surplus arms and a large stock of liquor. It was disappointment over loss of these which is believed to have invited the Indians to the attack the next day. On the other hand, to have given the sullen tribesmen the liquor and arms would have insured the destruction of the whites, so in either case the garrison of Fort Dearborn was doomed.

While preparations for the evacuation were taking place, Capt. William Wells, a famous scout and an uncle of Mrs. Heald, had arrived from Fort Wayne with a small force of friendly Miami Indians to help guard the retreating garrison. When the march started the next morning, Wells and his Indians led the advance to guard against the treachery which he felt sure would follow. In fact, Black Partridge, a friendly Pottawatomie chief, had warned Heald on August 14 that "linden birds had been singing in his ears and the white men should be careful on the march they were about to make." But it was too late then to turn back and, even though fearing the worst, Heald determined to go on.

A mile and a half from the fort the Indians, hidden among the sand hills, attacked the head of the column. Wells' Miamis fled at the first fire. Heald succeeded in rallying his soldiers and charged with bayonet, driving the Indians back. At the rear of the column the savages had attacked the wagons bearing the women and children which were guarded by the militia, who were cut down to a man. Captain Wells, who had ridden back to the wagons to save his niece, was shot down and killed, fighting to the last. But he was only one of several heroes, both men and women, who perished that day after fighting desperately until the tomahawks of the savages cut them down.

Surrounded by the Indians, who outnumbered his force nearly ten to one, there was but one thing left for Captain Heald to do to stop the slaughter. That was to surrender and that he did to Black Bird, the principal Pottawatomie chief. In the brief conflict 25 regulars, 12 militia, 2 women and 12 children were killed or so desperately wounded that they died later. Many others, including Captain Heald himself, were also seriously wounded. Some of the wounded prisoners were saved by the Indians only to meet a more terrible fate than captivity. For, as was the case at Fort William Henry, the massacre was followed by an infernal orgy of torture in the Indian camp. The most of the prisoners were carried away to Indian villages or to Canada and were later ransomed.

Today a monument marks the spot where the Fort Dearborn massacre took place. It stands at the foot of Eighteenth street, near the lake, in Chicago. Topping it is a scene of one of the most thrilling scenes in the massacre—the friendly chief, Black Partridge, staying the hand of an Indian who is attempting to tomahawk Mrs. Helm, the young wife of Lieutenant Helm.

Improved Uniform International

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. H. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(© 1928 Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for July 29

THE FIRST FOREIGN MISSIONARIES

LESSON TEXT—Acts 13:1-52.
GOLDEN TEXT—Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul and His Friend Go to Tell Others About Jesus.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul and Barnabas Sent as Missionaries.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Paul Found His Life Work.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Holy Spirit in Missions.

This lesson marks the beginning of foreign missions as the deliberately planned enterprise of the church. The occasion for the beginning of this work was a meeting of certain prophets and teachers at Antioch. While these ministers were engaged in praying the Lord laid upon their hearts so heavily the evangelization of the world that they refrained from eating in order to seek the will of the Lord in prayer. This is the kind of fasting that meets God's approval.

I. Barnabas and Saul Sent Forth (vv. 2, 3).

The Spirit directed the church to send forth Barnabas and Saul to the work whereunto He had called them. The Spirit called and the church seconded the motion by sending those who were Spirit-called. A real call to missionary service comes from the Holy Spirit. It should be the concern of the church to constantly seek the mind of the Spirit relative to the sending forth of laborers into the Lord's vineyard. It is to be noted that the Spirit called and the church sent the very best men from their company at Antioch. This is as it should be. Success in the mission field is dependent upon the laying of her best men and women upon the altar by the church.

II. Barnabas and Saul Preaching the Word of God in Cyprus (vv. 4, 5).

After a second season of prayer and fasting the church formally ordained these first foreign missionaries for their work. Ordination by the imposition of hands has its proper place. Cyprus being the home of Barnabas perhaps accounts for their first going to this country. It is most natural that those who have heard the good news should go first to their kindred and friends. Then, too, Barnabas was acquainted with the country and people and could thus be assured of a proper hearing among them. Andrew first went to his brother, and the man out of whom the demons were cast was commanded by Christ to go home and tell what great things the Lord had done for him (Luke 9:39).

III. Barnabas and Saul Withstood by Elymas, the Sorcerer (vv. 6-12).

Sergius Paulus, the deputy, invited Barnabas and Saul to tell him of the Word of God. Elymas maliciously sought to turn the deputy's mind from the faith. This first obstacle encountered, as the gospel was being carried to the heathen world, was overcome through the power of the Holy Spirit. Paul denounced Elymas in most scathing terms, calling him the child of the devil, declaring that he was full of guile and villany, pronouncing him the enemy of all righteousness, and accusing him of perverting the right ways of the Lord.

IV. Paul and Barnabas in the Synagogue at Antioch in Pisidia (vv. 13-16).

From Paphos Paul and Barnabas with Mark went northward to Perga. It is from this place, perhaps because of hardship, that Mark went back. He started out with good intentions, but the trials seemed too great for him to endure. Mark redeemed himself later, though when they started on their second missionary journey Paul would not consent for Mark to accompany them, although he later testified in Mark's favor (II Tim. 4:11). From Perga they went to Antioch in Pisidia and entered the synagogue on the Sabbath day. While he was the apostle to the Gentiles he began with the Jews. After the usual reading of the Scriptures, in response to the invitation of the rulers, Paul delivered his first recorded sermon. This sermon is worthy of careful study. When analyzed we find it had four parts. 1. Historical (vv. 17-23). 2. Political (vv. 24-27). 3. Doctrinal (vv. 28, 30). 4. Practical (vv. 40, 41).

The effect of this sermon was that many Jews and proselytes requested to hear these words again. Almost the whole city came to hear the Word of God the next Sabbath. While many came to hear these words jealousy provoked open opposition.

Take Heed

Wherefore take heed of being painted fire, wherein is no warmth; and painted flowers, which retain no smell; and of being painted trees, wherein is no fruit: "Whoso boasteth himself of a false gift, is like clouds and wind without rain."—John Bunyan.

God Will Aid Us

As long as we work on God's line, he will aid us. When we attempt to work on our own lines, He rebukes us with failure.

MOST people know this absolute antidote for pain, but are you careful to say Bayer when you buy it? And do you always give a glance to see Bayer on the box—and the word genuine printed in red? It isn't the genuine Bayer Aspirin without it! A drugstore always has Bayer, with the proven directions tucked in every box:

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monacetic Acid Ester of Salicylic Acid

HEADACHE RELIEVED

... QUICKLY
Carter's Little Liver Pills
Purely Vegetable Laxative
move the bowels free from pain and unpleasant after effects. They relieve the system of constipation poisons which many times cause a dull and aching head. Remember they are a doctor's prescription and can be given with absolute confidence to every member of the family. All Druggists 25c and 75c Red Packages.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

Mosquito Bites

HANFORD'S
Balsam of Myrrh

Money back for first bottle if not suited. All dealers.

Gathering Wapato Root

On Wapato island 60 years ago, in the fall of the year, the last of the Multnomahs harvested their strange crop. To reach the finest plants, productive of the largest tubers, the laughing, gossiping squaws waded breast-deep in the bright waters, says Nature Magazine. They drew behind them a small canoe, and with their bare, brown feet they freed the roots of the wapato.

Up from the ooze they plucked it, with its leaves so like a broad arrow-head, and as they stripped it of its tubers they cast these into the canoe until the craft was heavy laden. Of the tubers they made a kind of flour that was stored for winter, and, too, they feasted on the fresh wapato, boiled or roasted.

No Harm Done

Floor Walker—You were very rude to the lady who is just going out.
Assistant—Oh, that's all right. She's my wife.—Passing Show.

It May Be Urgent

When your Children Cry for It

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctors' word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle, opened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.

Fletcher's CASTORIA

WANT ADS

FOR SALE—No. 1 Standard binder twine; cricket proof at $10.50 per 100 lbs. J. M. Yunker, Orland Park, Ill. Phone 52-M.

LOST—Boston terrier brindle, bob ears, tan harness near New Lenox Sunday. Fred H. Scheel, New Lenox, Ill. Tel. New Lenox 64.

FOR SALE—7 room modern house with all improvements and a garage in Tinley Park. Inquire of Mrs. Dora Hartman, Tinley Park.

FOR SALE—4 tube Alladin radio complete with speaker, batteries and tubes for $30. Clarence E. Beagley, Orland Park, Ill. Tel. 97 or 29J2

FOR SALE—2 year old registered Holstein bull and one Durham bull; will sell either one; 1 bay mare 14 years old; drive single or double, $15. 16 inch International silo cutter type B in good running order, $50.00. Dan C. Laufer, Tinley Park, Ill. Tel. Mokena 59-W2

FOR SALE—150 ft. threshing belt nearly new; 6 ft. McCormick Grain binder in good shape. H. F. Yunker Mokena, Ill.

FOR SALE—Radiola 28 8 tube set complete with batteries, tubes and speaker for $125. Clarence E. Beagley, Orland Park, Ill. Phones 97 and 29J2.

FOR SALE—year old, registered female police dog. To be sold for no fault. Cheap for quick disposal. Rev. S. Smith, Marley, Illinois.

Are you wet or are you dry makes no difference in quality or price of my work. Rug weaving 60 cents per yard. C. L. Sylvester, Mokena, Ill.

FOR RENT—Two 160 acre farms. Inquire James Fulton, Tinley Park, Ill.

STRAYED—150 pound pig, color red. Finder please notify Conrad Bormet, Frankfort, Ill. Tel. 59-W-1.

Insure Now—Lightning, fire and tornado, $2 per $100 insurance for 5 year term. List your real estate with me for sale. Have a number of modern homes in Tinley Park for sale now. W. C. Hollstein. Telephone Tinley Park 12-R

DE KOHL STOCK FARM
All tested stock. Have young bulls for sale. Angelo Dini, Tinley Park, Ill.

Sells 107 acre farm

Clarence Mast of New Lenox township has sold his farm of 107 acres to Fred Scheel, who is remodeling the buildings.

EP. LEAG. INSTITUTE AT NEW LENOX ENDS SUNDAY

The annual Epworth League Institute has been in session at the New Lenox camp grounds daily since last Sunday. The session will close this Sunday. Hundreds of young people from all over the district have been attending these meetings, reminding one of the old time camp meeting days of years ago.

TINLEY PARK

Last week a story appeared in this paper about a little girl who was captured by the Indians many years ago in the east and Mrs. C. Scheer was very much surprised to read the story. She knows all the history of it and next week we will run an article and a poem about it.

The Orland Park Players will present their play Oh, Kay at the Tinley Park Community hall Friday night of this week.

Lightning struck the residence of Mrs. J. Keleher last Wednesday. On Thursday lightning struck a barn on the W. B. Combs place. In both cases only slight damage was done.

Motorcycle policeman George Smith who was recently injured while on the trail of a speeder, is improving nicely and is on the job again. Tuesday night an auto with two men in it sped thru town at a clip of 62 miles an hour. Officer Smith raced after them at a rate of 75 miles an hour and caught the speeders who were from East Chicago. They were brought back to Tinley Park and arraigned before Judge Dohm who fined them $20 and cost apiece.

Mrs. Henry Klepper and children and Henry Hick and family are enjoying a vacation trip in Michigan.

The Lions Club has purchased 26 street signs. The signs will be surmounted with an lion emblem. Further particulars next week.

A large delegation of Tinley Lions and their wives attended the New Lenox Lions Club charter night banquet last Friday night. Clyde Rice was heavy on the spuds and had a stand in with the waitress who gave him an extra big helping. Clyde says he will lay in a big supply of potatoes for this winter as spuds are his long suit.

The Klepper family reunion was held in the Boeyer woods Sunday. About forty guests were present.

Henry Vogt and family are expected back from an extended trip north, this week.

Mrs. Criswell is entertaining her sister from Tennessee.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Parenti visited with their son Peter, Jr., at the Naperville Sanitarium Wednesday. He is getting along fine.

The Lions Club will hold a picnic and dance on Labor Day at the Saenger hall.

George Lorenz bought a new Huo mobile 8 Wednesday.

A circus is billed to be in Tinley Park this coming Sunday.

While Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kampe were on a trip near Mokena last Sunday they met with a serious mishap. Another car had crowded them off the pavement and in turning back onto the pavement the car suddenly shot across the road and landed in a ditch and turned over. Luckily all escaped with a few cuts and bruises. The top of the car was badly damaged.

Considerable barley, wheat and oats are being raised around here this year and a bumper crop is predicted. Cutting of barley was begun this week.

While working on the roof of the new house Wm. Rick is building in the west end of town, Frank Mancke slipped and fell off the roof injuring his arm.

The Tinley Park R. N. A. held a bunco party at the community hall on Tuesday night.

Miss Eleanor DeVol, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur DeVol, and Benjamin Yunker will be married Saturday afternoon at the St. John Evangelical church in Mokena.

The Lions Club has been increased to 46 members.

The Foster building is being given a new coat of paint, Fred Schmiedknecht doing the work.

Mokena will Play The Tinley Park team this coming Sunday at the Schiek diamond at Mokena.

BACHELORS GR. LUTH. CHURCH

Wm. Greve, Pastor

The annual Mission Festival will be observed next Sunday, July 29. The Rev. E. Blau, of Midlothian will occupy the pulpit at the morning service, beginning at 9:30 o'clock, standard time. Rev. Walter Greve, of Orland Park, will deliver short German and English addresses in the afternoon beginning at 2:30 o'clock. Refreshments are to be had in the grove. You are always welcome.

There will be a church wedding next Sunday at 1:45 o'clock. Mr. Hilbert Schultz and Miss Blanche Woodcock are to be married.

Morning Star

Mission Report

Report of the morning Star Mission for the month of June by Supt. Peter McCarthy at Joliet:

Conversions 60; free meals 290; free clothing to 43 persons; free Bibles 1; free new testaments 10; free gospels 150; police court and jail visits 28; relief to 7 families; paid railroad fare for 7 persons.

Not for Profit, But For Service. Where he was most Master he was Most Servant. Kindness is Love in action. Love suffereth long and is kind, is not puffed up, beareth all things, believeth all things, endureth all things. Love never faileth.

ORLAND PARK

Marley Community Baptist church gave a very successful presentation of the play "Nora, Wake Up" at the Orland Park M. E. church last Tuesday evening.

The crowd, which packed the house to the doors, had many opportunities to laugh while Mrs. Peggy Calahan skillfully guided the destinies of her boy and girl while Katie Schwartz, the ever present and willing neighbor, was always successful in making funny situations more so.

There were folks from Palos Park, Worth, and the country around Orland in the crowd which filled the church, making it necessary for some to stand throughout out the performance.

The Orland Park Players will present their three act comedy "Oh, Kay" at the Marley church sometime in August.

The Orland Park Players will join with the Dramatic Society of the Tinley Park M. E. church in a four-night program at the Calumet Masonic Lodge at Blue Island. The two plays will run alternately as follows:

Oh, Kay, Orland Park Players, Wednesday, August 15 at 8:15.

Yimmy Yonson's Yob, Tinley Park Players, Thursday, August 16, 8:15. Oh, Kay, Orland Park Players, Friday, August 17, 8:15. Yimmy Yonson's Yob, Tinley Park Players, Saturday, August 18, 8:15.

The Churches of Orland Park, Palos Park, Worth, and Chicago Ridge are combining their evening services into an open air service at the farm of Ernest Warner near the Southmoor Country Club. There was a good turn-out last Sunday to hear A. P. Burton of the Chicago Theological Seminary, give a short informal talk.

These services are proving very profitable and helpful to the folks who are taking advantage of the splendid view from the Warner hill and the quiet of the evening time. The service will begin next Sunday evening at 6:30 Daylight Saving time.

There is also a breakfast and a prayer group each Sunday morning at 6:30.

Al. Briggs will have a public auction at his farm August 4.

MARLEY

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Marley church will hold their monthly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Frazier Tuesday afternoon, July 31.

The public is invited to attend. The July circle will also conduct a bakery sale at this meeting. Ladies are invited to contribute anything in the edible line for this sale. Proceeds of the sale will be used for church purposes.

TO ORGANIZE WILL COUNTY SUN. SCHOOLS

(continued from front page)

Harriet Francis, New Lenox; Miss Irene Donaldson, 316 Raynor Ave., Joliet; Budget Officers, Thomas Patterson, Plainfield; Children's Division, Mrs. Otto Rathie, Peotone; Whitney, Joliet.

Young People's Division, Rev. Otstot, Raynor & Western Ave., Joliet; Adult Division, Charles Bellward, Manhattan; Publicity, Mrs. William Semmler, Mokena; Leadership Training, Rev. C. Smith, Marley; Vacation and Week Day School, Rev. F. M. Whitney, Joliet.

PUBLIC SALE

I will sell at public sale at my place of residence on what is known as the old Wm. Briggs farm at 143rd St., and Wolf Road, 1 1-2 miles west of Orland Park and 6 1-2 miles north of Mokena, at 1 p. m. sharp

Sat. August 4, 1928

Farm Implements and Household Goods

TERMS CASH.

AL. BRIGGS, Owner

EDWARD SCHMAEDEKE, Auctioneer. RUSSEL MYRICK, Clerk.

NEW LENOX CHAUTAUQUA

JULY 26 to 30, Colonial Hall
Best of Educational Programs and music Afternoon and Evening. COME!

Fresh Shipment Received of the famous Martha Washington and Bunte Summer box Candies CHERRY CANDY 60 cents

G. DINI, TINLEY PARK

International Harvester Company

ANNOUNCES

The new International 6 Speed SPECIAL

The Only Speed Truck of Heavy Duty Design with 6 Speeds Forward And 2 Reverses

All over the country truck users have said for years, "Show me a small heavy-duty truck for compact, heavy loads, to look and go like a snappy speed truck, with frame and springs to stand all kinds of punishment, and with a gear reduction so I CAN USE THE ENGINE POWER DOWN TO THE LAST OUNCE WHEN I'M CAUGHT HEAVY LOADED IN HARD GOING."

We didn't have such a truck—no body else did. But International Harvester engineers began work on it two years ago. Now we are ready for that demand with the "SIX-SPEED SPECIAL," a sturdy job built for SPEED and built for POWER, and SOLD AT A PRICE TO SURPRISE YOU. A new, original, and exclusive type of truck.

The feature of the "Six-Speed Special" is the 2 speed rear axle. Built into this small and sturdy International chassis is an extra low range ordinarily found only in the high-priced heavy-duty trucks.

Every part of the new truck measures up to this new tremendous power range. The reliable 4-cylinder engine is a fuel saver, quick in pick-up, a perfect speed truck engine in every detail. The 6-inch-deep frame and the long rear springs, all the chassis members, in fact, are strictly heavy-duty throughout.

Sections to which the "Six-Speed Special" was released six months ago are taking this truck in dozens of solid trainloads, already requiring a production schedule far ahead of every other model.

The new Six-Speed Special chassis has an exclusive 2-speed rear axle. The gears are in low range, the drive in this position being thru the countershaft gears at the right. This provides three extra low speeds ranging down to 3 1-2 miles per hour, with ten times as much pulling power as in "high" speed. For regular driving, a shift of the special lever at the driver's right changes to a direct drive, providing 35 miles an hour with the same easy engine speed. This 2-speed rear axle converts extra speed into greater power, or the greater power into extra speed, as conditions demand. Bodies for any type of hauling where roads and loads call for both speed and power. Rated capacity, 1—1 1-2 tons.

chassis

$795

F. O. B. Springfield, O.

Farmers, Contractors, Attention! We will gladly demonstrate these trucks under all conditions.

Phone 2018 for Appointment.

INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER CO. of America

1524-1526 Chicago Road

FACTORY BRANCH

Open Evenings

Chicago Heights, Ill.